

Content-Based Instruction Vs. Traditional ESL Instruction

Traditional ESL Instruction	Content-Based Instruction
Emphasis on Language Skills	Centers around subject matter content like science, history, or literature as the primary focus of instruction.
Language is often taught without a strong connection to real-life situations or practical subjects.	Offers a context-rich learning environment.
Language learning is treated as a separate subject from other academic areas.	Seamless Integration of Language and Content
Repetition and memorization	Encourages active learning through discussions, projects, and hands-on activities related to the subject matter.
May not always engage students' interests or passions	Motivation through personal interests
