Cyberspaces Of Their Own:

Cyberspaces of Their Own Rhiannon Bury, 2005 Cyberspaces of Their Own interrogates the social and spatial relations of the rapidly expanding virtual terrain of media fandom For the first time issues of identity community and space are brought together in this in depth ethnographic study of two female internet communities Members are fans of the American television series The X Files and the Canadian series Due South Forging links between media cultural and internet studies this book examines negotiations of gender class sexuality and nationality in making meaning out of a television show producing fiction based on television characters creating and maintaining online communal relations and organizing cyberspace in a way that marks it out as alternative to that which surrounds it

Speculative Blackness André M. Carrington, 2016-02-29 In Speculative Blackness Andr M Carrington analyzes the highly racialized genre of speculative fiction including science fiction fantasy and utopian works along with their fan cultures to illustrate the relationship between genre conventions in media and the meanings ascribed to blackness in the popular imagination Carrington s argument about authorship fandom and race in a genre that has been both marginalized and celebrated offers a black perspective on iconic works of science fiction He examines the career of actor Nichelle Nichols who portrayed the character Uhura in the original Star Trek television series and later became a recruiter for NASA and the spin off series Star Trek Deep Space Nine set on a space station commanded by a black captain He recovers a pivotal but overlooked moment in 1950s science fiction fandom in which readers and writers of fanzines confronted issues of race by dealing with a fictitious black fan writer and questioning the relevance of race to his ostensible contributions to the zines Carrington mines the productions of Marvel comics and the black owned comics publisher Milestone Media particularly the representations of black sexuality in its flagship title Icon He also interrogates online fan fiction about black British women in Buffy the Vampire Slayer and the Harry Potter series Throughout this nuanced analysis Carrington theorizes the relationship between race and genre in cultural production revealing new understandings of the significance of blackness in twentieth century American literature and culture

Cyber Spaces/Social Spaces I. Goodson, M. Knobel, C. Lankshear, M. Mangan, 2002-12-05 What happens when a new social technology is imposed on the established social technology of the school This book presents an unusual application of critical cultural analysis to a series of empirical case studies of educational uses of information and communication technologies ICTs Drawing on research conducted over a ten year period in three different regions of the Anglo American developed world it examines themes arising from the struggle for the social spaces and emerging cyber spaces of schooling the role of identity projects in educational change and the paradoxes which arise from these processes The resulting analysis offers a rich and sobering perspective on the rush to technologize classrooms

Smart Spaces and Places Ling Bian, 2021-06-21 Smart technologies have advanced rapidly throughout our society e g smart energy smart health smart living smart cities smart environment and smart society and across geographic spaces and places Behind these smart developments are a number of seminal drivers such as social media e.g. Twitter, sensors, drones, wearables, smartphone apps and computing infrastructure e.g. cloud computing. These developments have captured the enthusiasm of the public while inevitably presenting unprecedented challenges and opportunities for the geographic research community. When meeting the smart challenges are there emerging theories, methods and observations that reveal new spatial phenomena, produce new knowledge and foster new policies?

Smart Spaces and Places addresses questions such as how to make spaces and places smart, how the smartness affects the way we think spaces and places and what role geographies play in knowledge production and decision making in a smart era. The collection of 21 chapters offers stimulating discussion over the meaning of spaces, places and smartness, scientific insights into smartness, social, political views of smartness and policy implications of smartness. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Annals of the American Association of Geographers.

Electronic Tribes Tyrone L. Adams, Stephen A. Smith, 2008-06-01. Whether people want to play games and download music, engage in social networking and professional collaboration or view pornography and incite terror, the Internet provides myriad opportunities for people who share common interests to find each other. The contributors to this book argue that these self-selected online groups are best understood as tribes with many of the same ramifications, both positive and negative, that tribalism has in the non-cyber world. In Electronic Tribes, the authors of sixteen competitively selected essays provide an up-to-the-minute look at the social uses and occasional abuses of online communication in the new media era. They explore many current Internet subcultures including MySpace.com, craftster.org, massively multiplayer online role playing games, MMORPGs such as World of Warcraft, music downloading, white supremacist and other counterculture groups and Nigerian e-mail scams. Their research raises compelling questions and some remarkable answers about the real-life social consequences of participating in electronic tribes. Collectively, the contributors to this book capture a profound shift in the way people connect as communities formed by geographical proximity are giving way to communities both online and offline formed around ideas.

Innovation and Evolution in Higher Education, 2024-10-02. Higher education fulfills vital functions in talent cultivation, scientific research, social service and innovation. Its innovation and transformation play a critical role in societal development. In recent years, countries around the world have been actively exploring effective pathways for the innovation and transformation of higher education. This book capitalizes on this momentum, summarizing the theoretical and practical advancements concerning higher education reform and innovation in various countries and regions. It emphasizes the significance of higher education in regional development, how the learning sciences lead to talent cultivation in higher education and the theories and practices of student development in higher education, providing valuable insights into higher education reform and innovation.

Remote Relationships in a Small World Samantha Holland, 2008. How do people have relationships when they are apart or develop them when they've never even met? From MySpace and weblogs to romance and sexuality, this book draws together a range of studies on remote relationships, investigating the intricate intimate ways that people forge connections online The term remote refers to the technologies that facilitate forms of communication and also underlines the lack of physicality involved in these relationships developed at a distance Using empirical data these collected essays explore a wide variety of relationships examining the methodological and ethical issues that researchers face Remote Relationships in a Small World part of a new generation of online studies responds to the need for research that focuses on social relationships Envisioning Cyberspace Peter Anders,1999 Here is the first integrated approach to the design of virtual environments Through examples of the pioneering work of designers from all over the world this innovative guide shows architects designers and programmers how to create the landmarks and context of cyberspace and possibilities in this field for the future 105 illustrations 30 in color Digitized Lives T.V. Reed,2018-12-12 In chapters examining a broad range of issues including sexuality politics education race gender relations the environment and social protest movements Digitized Lives argues that making sense of digitized culture means looking past the glossy surface of techno gear to ask deeper questions about how we can utilize technology to create a more socially politically and economically just world This second edition includes important updates on mobile and social media examining how new platforms and devices have altered how we interact with digital technologies in an allegedly post truth era A companion website culturalpolitics.net/index/digital_cultures includes links to online articles and useful websites as well as a bibliography of offline resources and more Macedonian Review ,1995 History culture literature arts Encyclopedia of Communication Theory: J - Y Stephen W. Littlejohn,Karen A. Foss,2009 Provides students and researchers with a comprehensive overview of contemporary communication theory Entries address topics related not only to paradigms traditions and schools but also metatheory methodology inquiry and applications and contexts Leonardo ,2002 International journal of contemporary visual artists The Quest ,1992 Mondo 2000 R.
