Climate-Environment Interactions under Global Warming, volume II Hainan Gong,Haipeng Yu,Zhiyuan Hu,Qinjian Jin,2025-03-07 During recent decades the global climate and environment have experienced unprecedented changes Much evidence indicates that the global surface temperature is increasing rapidly especially in the Arctic and extreme climate and environmental events are frequently occurring Climate and environmental changes not only have a great impact on society and the economy but also seriously exert far reaching impacts on both human lives and health Therefore revealing the mechanisms behind the climate and environmental changes is critical to advancing our understanding and predicting of the global climate and environmental changes and their impacts. Climate change can cause environmental change and environmental change may in turn affect climate change. For example, the faster Arctic warming can change the mid latitude large scale atmospheric circulation and further modulate the regional air quality through transport and diffusion. Conversely, the air pollution associated with industrial activities may also affect the regional and global climate through the complicated aerosol climate interaction. The limited understanding of these feedback and interactions adds uncertainty to predicting the future evolution of the climate and environment.

Justice and Equity in Climate Change Education Elizabeth M. Walsh, 2022-02-21 This volume looks at the ways in which climate change education relates to broader ideas of justice, equity and social transformation and ultimately calls for a rapid response to the need for climate education reform. Highlighting the role of climate change in exacerbating existing societal injustices, this text explores the ethical and social dimensions of climate change education, including identity, agency and societal structure, and in doing so, problematizes climate change education as an equity concern. Chapters present empirical analysis underpinned by a theoretical framework and case studies which provide critical insights for the design of learning environments, curricula and everyday climate change related learning in schools. Displacement, Development, and Climate Change Nina Hall, 2016-03-22 This book focuses on one critical challenge, climate change. Climate change is predicted to lead to an increased intensity and frequency of natural disasters. An increase in extreme weather events, global temperatures and higher sea levels may lead to displacement and migration and will affect many dimensions of the economy and society.

Although scholars are examining the complexity and fragmentation of the climate change regime they have not examined how our existing international development migration and humanitarian organizations are dealing with climate change Focusing on three institutions the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees the International Organization for Migration and the United Nations Development Programme the book asks how have these inter governmental organizations responded to climate change And are they moving beyond their original mandates given none were established with a mandate for climate change It traces their responses to climate change in their rhetoric policy structure operations and overall mandate change Hall argues that international bureaucrats can play an important role in mandate expansion often deciding whether and how to expand into a new issue area and then lobbying states to endorse this expansion They make changes in rhetoric policy structure and operations on the ground and therefore forge frame and internalize new issue linkages This book helps us to understand how institutions established in the 20th century are adapting to a 21st century world It will be of great interest to scholars and students of International Relations Development Studies Environmental Politics International Organizations and Global Governance as well as international officials Unlikely Ally Marilyn Berlin Snell,2018-08-21 An environmental journalist reveals how some California military bases are leading the charge in the fight against climate change In California the US military has begun to redefine how our national security operations relate to the destabilizing effects of climate change Several bases have taken on a largely unrecognized yet crucial role in renewable energy innovation and in preserving cultural and natural treasures These facilities are going beyond environmental stewardship to align national defense with energy security and the protection of endangered species In Unlikely Ally environmental journalist Marilyn Berlin Snell takes readers through these bases to examine what twenty first century sustainable energy infrastructure looks like whether combat readiness and species protection can successfully coexist how cutting edge technology and water conservation practices could transform life in a resource constrained world and how the Department of Defense s scientific research into the metabolic secrets of the endangered desert tortoise could speed human travel to Mars Education and Climate Change Fumiyo Kagawa,David Selby,2010-04-15 There is widespread consensus in the international scientific community that climate change is happening and that abrupt and irreversible impacts are already set in motion What part does education have to play in helping alleviate rampant climate change and in mitigating its worst effects In this volume contributors review and reflect upon social learning from and within their fields of educational expertise in response to the concerns over climate change They address the contributions the field is currently making to help preempt and mitigate the environmental and social impacts of climate change as well as how it will continue to respond to the ever changing climate situation With a special foreword by Desmond Tutu Archbishop Emeritus of Cape Town Adapting to Climate Change W.
