APA Committee of Psychology Teachers at Community Colleges (PT@CC)

What is PT@CC?

The APA Committee of Psychology Teachers at Community Colleges (PT@CC) was established in 2001 to provide a voice for community college psychology teachers in APA. Through support from the APA Education Directorate and leadership from the PT@CC Committee, a network of community college teacher affiliates—called PT@CC—has developed into a national membership organization for psychology teachers at community colleges. PT@CC has given educators a voice on the national level to advance issues of particular importance to the teaching and learning of psychology at community colleges. With more than 1,600 members nationally, PT@CC works to promote high-quality teaching in psychology.

PT@CC goals

- Foster professionalism in the teaching of psychology as a science
- Provide resources that will help psychology teachers with teaching and research
- Create partnerships with other APA committees and boards
- Recognize excellent teachers and students for their work in psychology

Community colleges at a glance

- Community colleges—where 8 million college students are taking courses for academic credit—represent one of the largest segments of America's higher education system. According to the American Association of

- Community colleges also create partnerships with local businesses and industries to respond to the needs of these employers (AACC, 2013).
- About 1,200 community colleges are located in cities and rural areas throughout the nation (AACC, 2013).

Community college students

- According to the report of the White House Summit on Community Colleges (2011), community colleges enroll a "disproportionate percentage of minority, non-traditional, older adult, low-income, working, parent, and first generation students." Many of these students require additional support to complete their education.
- 60% of community college students transfer to 4-year colleges and universities, and nearly 71% of the students who transfer earn a 4-year degree (National Student Clearinghouse Research Center, 2012).
- Veterans are more likely to enroll in community colleges for a college education (National Center for Education Statistics [NCES], 2011).
- Recent immigrants are more likely to enroll in English as a second language (ESL) classes at community colleges (Community College Consortium for Immigrant Education, 2013).

Psychology at the community college

- More sections of introductory psychology are taught in community colleges than at baccalaureate-degree-granting institutions (Clay, 2008).
- NCES (2012) reported that during a 10-year period (from 1999–2000 to 2009–2010), "the field of psychology experienced the largest percent increase in the
