Introduction: Physical activity plays an important role in all stages of development, especially in adolescence, as it is a period in which different lifestyles are shaped. Therefore, regular practice of physical activity contributes to an improvement in quality of life. This study analyzed university students' motivational processes and intention to be physically active when engaging in physical activity (PA) according to gender and fields of study.

Methods: A total of 1,524 subjects participated in the study, 61.9% ($n = 944$) of whom were female and 38.1% ($n = 580$) were male, with an average age of 19.61 years. The fields of study consisted of Arts and Humanities ($n = 116$), Science ($n = 132$), Health Sciences ($n = 351$), Engineering and Architecture ($n = 196$) and Social and Legal Sciences ($n = 727$). The instruments used were the Behavioral Regulation in Exercise Questionnaire (BREQ-3) and the Intention to be Physically Active in the University Context (MIFAU) measurement scale.

Results: The results showed statistically significant differences in favour of men ($p < 0.01$) in terms of intrinsic, integrated, identified, and introjected regulation of PA. Similarly, men were more likely to be physically active in the future than women ($p < 0.001$). In terms of the study variables relating to the fields of study, statistically significant differences were obtained in the case of both more self-determined behavior (intrinsic, integrated and identified regulation) and amotivation ($p < 0.001$).

Conclusion: It was concluded that there is a need for the promotion of intervention strategies to encourage young adults to take up sporting activities as a means of preventing noncommunicable diseases, thereby avoiding the negative consequences of a sedentary lifestyle, physical inactivity, or abandonment of such activities.

Analysis Of Motivational Processes:

Analysis of Motivational Processes F. M. Toates, Timothy R. Halliday, 1980 Analysis of Motivational Processes
Frederick M. Toates, Tim Halliday, 1980 Handbook of Motivation at School Kathryn R. Wentzel, David B. Miele, 2016-02-19
The second edition of the Handbook of Motivation at School presents an integrated compilation of theory and research in the field. With chapters by leading experts, this book covers the major theoretical perspectives in the field as well as their application to instruction, learning, and social adjustment at school. Section I focuses on theoretical perspectives and major constructs; Section II on contextual and social influences on motivation; and Section III on new directions in the field. This new edition will have the same popular organizational structure with theories at the beginning. It will also include new chapters that cover motivation as it relates to identity, culture, test anxiety, mindfulness, neuroscience, parenting, metacognition, and regulatory focus.

Talcott Parsons and the Conceptual Dilemma (RLE Social Theory) Hans Adriaansens, 2014-08-21
This systematic analysis of the nature and development of Talcott Parsons's theory of action offers first an introduction to the conceptual paradigm upon which this theory is based, an introduction that is which will make Parsons's writing more easily accessible. Second, the book gives an explanation of the development which the action theory has undergone during the half-century of Parsons's career. Using a scheme of four theory levels, the author indicates the crucial premises that can be distilled from Parsons's early works. He argues that Parsons from the very start of his career was trying to translate abstract premises into a systematically constructed conceptual scheme. The first conceptual translation, however, turned out to be vague and inconsistent in many respects, and this study offers a very specific explanation of the inadequacy of this first structural-functional version of the theory of action. Dr. Adriaansens argues that it was not until Parsons had found his way out of this conceptual dilemma that the premises of the action theory could be adequately translated into a conceptual paradigm.

This book constitutes the proceedings of the BPM 2025 Responsible BPM Forum, Process Technology Forum, and Educators Forum held at the 23rd International Conference on Business Process Management BPM 2025, which took place in Seville, Spain, during September 2025. The Responsible Business Process Management RBPM Forum provides a platform for exploring how to integrate responsibility into BPM practices, addressing challenges from three perspectives: technological, managerial, and conceptual. The Process Technology Forum covers technical and engineering aspects related to the study, design, development, and maintenance of software systems that support the modeling, simulation, analysis, enactment, and monitoring of business processes. The Educators Forum deals with possibilities to improve BPM teaching in a dynamic and practice-oriented way. The total of 32 papers included in this book was carefully reviewed and selected from a total of 65 papers submitted to these forums.

Work Motivation Ruth Kanfer, Gilad

Chen, Robert D. Pritchard, 2008-06-24 This edited volume in SIOP's Organizational Frontiers Series presents the current thinking and research on the important area of motivation. Work Motivation is a central issue in Industrial organizational psychology, human resource management, and organizational behavior. In this volume, the editors and authors show that motivation must be seen as a multi-faceted phenomenon.

Motivation, Emotion, and Cognition David Yun Dai, Robert J. Sternberg, 2004-07-13 The central argument of this book is that cognition is not the whole story in understanding intellectual functioning and development. To account for inter-individual, intra-individual, and developmental variability in actual intellectual performance, it is necessary to treat cognition, emotion, and motivation as inextricably related.

Motivation, Emotion, and Cognition: Integrative Perspectives on Intellectual Functioning and Development represents a new direction in theory and research on intellectual functioning and development. It portrays human intelligence as fundamentally constrained by biology and adaptive needs but modulated by social and cultural forces and encompasses and integrates a broad range of scientific findings and advances from cognitive and affective neurosciences to cultural psychology, addressing fundamental issues of individual differences, developmental variability, and cross-cultural differences with respect to intellectual functioning and development. By presenting current knowledge regarding an integrated understanding of intellectual functioning and development, this volume promotes exchanges among researchers concerned with provoking new ideas for research and provides educators and other practitioners with a framework that will enrich understanding and guide practice.

Understanding Motivation and Emotion Johnmarshall Reeve, 2024-09-09 Comprehensive reference on the nature of motivation and emotion, thoroughly updated with the latest research and findings in the field. Understanding Motivation and Emotion seeks to answer perennial questions such as: What do people want and how do I motivate self and others through evidence-based recommendations that enable readers to solve practical concerns. This newly updated and revised Eighth Edition addresses applied issues speaking more to daily motivational problems and situations such as how to promote high-quality motivation in self and others and emphasizes high-interest motivational constructs that have been most actively researched in the last three years, including grit, mental toughness, resilience, wellbeing, boredom, self-concept, identity, and GLP-1 hormones for weight loss. With shorter chapters and one fewer chapter than the previous edition, the goal of this edition is to provide a less overwhelming but also more inviting, interesting, engaging, and satisfying understanding of motivation and emotion. As with previous editions, resources for instructors include an Instructor's Manual and Test Bank featuring discussion questions activities central principles PowerPoint slides and other tools Written by an acclaimed professor and researcher in the field Understanding Motivation and Emotion discusses topics including Biological and psychological needs extrinsic motivation and internalization goal setting and goal striving mindsets personal control beliefs and the Self and its strivings Six perennial questions on the nature of emotion various aspects of emotion and the importance of individual emotions and feelings Growth motivation and positive psychology unconscious motivation interventions and implicit motives and attitudes The challenge threat mindset how to control and regulate emotions and the pros and cons of using money as a motivating factor Understanding Motivation and Emotion is an essential reference for all professionals and students seeking to understand the nebulous concepts of motivation and emotion and apply their findings in schools the workplace clinical settings healthcare sports and their own lives
