Addressing Misconceptions About Africas:

Addressing Misconceptions about Africa's Development Senyo B-S. K. Adjibolosoo, Benjamin Ofori-Amoah, 1998
These essays re open the debate on certain accepted notions about African economic underdevelopment problems Walls of Stone - Great Zimbabwe and the Erasure of Africa's Ancient Empire Eric B. Kyler, 101-01-01 Africa's Geography Benjamin Ofori-Amoah, 2019-04-30 Africa s Geography presents a comprehensive exploration of the world s second largest and most culturally diverse continent Author Benjamin Ofori Amoah challenges common misconceptions and misrepresentations of Africa from a geographical perspective harnessing the power of modern geographic mapping technology to explore this unique continent This text provides thorough coverage of the historical cultural economic and political forces that continue to shape Africa applying geographic context to relevant past and contemporary issues Coverage of economic development climate and biogeography transportation and communication manufacturing and commerce and mining and agriculture provides foundational knowledge of this vast and complex continent Ideally suited for multiple areas of classroom study this text offers an effective and flexible pedagogical framework Coverage of the entirety of Africa enables students to develop a cohesive portrait of the continent as a whole and identify the dynamism of its nations cultures and economies Engaging and accessible narrative strengthens comprehension while examples of historical and contemporary events increase student interest Innovative and unique Africa s Geography is an essential resource for cross disciplinary investigation of this fascinating part of the world Understanding Public Health in Africa David Mulenga, 2025-04-09 This innovative textbook written by an author based in Zambia provides an invaluable perspective on the key public health issues that Africa is facing today In addition to outlining the fundamental principles of public health the book highlights the specific challenges faced in low resource settings across the continent It is split into four parts Part I covers the core concepts of public health including the different determinants that affect public health as well as how health systems are organized Part II looks at environmental factors such as air pollution water sanitation and food and nutrition while Part III focuses on issues around infectious and non communicable diseases including chapters on tuberculosis malaria HIV AIDS maternal health and mental health Part IV covers emerging issues affecting public health such as climate change and the effects of mining in the region With each chapter providing examples and case studies to illustrate the issues success stories and innovative approaches being taken in countries such as Tanzania Uganda Kenya Malawi and Nigeria this unique book will fascinate students of Public Health Global Health African Studies and beyond Developing Effective Policies for HIV/AIDS Education practice in Sub Saharan Africa: The Case of Urban Schools of Malawi: A synergy of pupils needs, policies and practice Paul Makocho, 2014-11-01 HIV AIDS has been named the Sub Saharan disease In countries that have achieved significant declines in HIV prevalence young people have registered the biggest behavioural changes It means they hold the keys not only to our understanding of the epidemic but more importantly to the efforts required to stem the tide of infections However the majority of young people are ignorant of how to prevent transmission have low compliance to condom use which is in some cases accentuated by misconceptions about HIV AIDS transmission and have insufficient knowledge regarding transmission and avoidance behaviours As such consensus on feasible preventive interventions target young people particularly those in schools It is on this premise that the book unlocks the key pillars in effective HIV AIDS education policies and practices The study has drawn upon the experiences of selected Urban Schools in Malawi to explore the needs of young people in classroom the extent to which the classroom practices respond to the needs and the factors influencing these using questionnaires interviews lesson observations and document analysis Malawi typically represents most Sub Saharan African countries in terms of challenges faced by education systems Given the similar cultural settings of the people of Sub Saharan Africa the findings and recommendations of the study generalises to the education systems of Sub Saharan Africa to a greater extent The book shows the need for open discussion climates on HIV AIDS issues despite a conservative cultural and religious adult world that is not open It has also identified a need for explicit and accurate knowledge on HIV AIDS issues opportunities to acquire behavioural skills for HIV prevention and involvement of external speakers in classroom HIV AIDS education Current classroom practice does not address the pupils needs adequately Factors influencing this can be linked to lack of policies responsive to culture and religion ineffective and inadequate teaching policy guidelines and lack of a policy prioritising HIV AIDS education The findings suggest that in future effective HIV AIDS Education needs to be informed by the pupils needs To address these needs support from the wider society and related policies coupled with appropriate management and classroom practice will be required The book is therefore an indispensable tool for education systems in Sub Saharan Africa It provides an effective model for Mathematics Teaching and Professional Learning in sub-Sahara Africa Kakoma Luneta,2021-12-09 The book represents a crop of wide ranging research conducted by renown scholars in sub Sahara Africa revolving around mathematics teaching and professional development programs for mathematics teachers The research based proposals and actual how to conduct professional development initiatives that enhance effective mathematics instruction are rooted in teacher input and informed by learners errors and misconceptions The book provides a comprehensive snapshot on mathematics teaching learning and effective professional development programmes for mathematics teachers in sub Sahara Africa It is the only research output that advances and disseminates issues of mathematics education and research in the region with input from South Africa Kenya Rwanda Uganda Malawi Namibia Lesotho Ethiopia and Zimbabwe The Study of Africa: Disciplinary and Interdisciplinary encounters Paul Tiyambe Zeleza,2006 This is the first of a two volume work which takes stock of the study of Africa in the twenty first century its status research agenda and approaches and place It is divided into two parts the first on the academic disciplines and African Studies the second on interdisciplinary studies Cultural Reflections and the Role of Advertising in the Socio-economic and National Development of Nigeria Emmanuel C. Alozie,2005 This study focuses on the role of advertising in the process of social mobilization and modernization in Nigeria by examining the cultural reflections the nature and characteristics of the messages and the values and symbols conveyed in Nigerian mass media advertisements In this remarkable study Emmanuel C Alozie has attempted to explore the role of advertising in the national and economic development of Nigeria Examining this role through a combination of quantitative content analysis and critical cultural methods he has pursued a number of basic research questions For example one question asks what proportion of the advertisements in Nigerian mass media is directed to business entities as opposed to ordinary consumers The answer he provides presents an interesting perspective on advertising s role His research also found that most ads were product related and less than a third of the ads were related to service one indication of the relative underdevelopment of the economy Ads also promoted largely nonessential products and services to the tune of 65 per cent developing country like Nigeria the multitiered government agencies would provide a major share of the media advertising In reality only a tiny proportion about 5 per cent actually came from government sources the rest of the advertising was provided by the national and multinational corporations Alozie also found that Nigerian sponsors tend to promote goods of foreign origin over those of Nigerian derivative Overall he found that less than half the products and services advertised 42 per cent were of Nigerian origin with much of the products nonessential in nature Advertising messages with embedded appeals have the potential of manipulating consumers and promoting unproductive consumption habits among consumers in a situation of scarcity Therefore the appeals that are used in the advertising content become an important issue in a developing nation like Nigeria Alozie did not find extensive use of the image youth and sex appeals in the ads so prevalent in the West even though some of these appeals were found to have crept into the content primary selling point In addition emphasis was on savings family and safety for products regardless of whether the ads featured high involvement or low involvement products and services For decades policy makers in the developing world have debated the need for using mass media for human resource moralization by emphasizing developmental themes To what extent Nigerian ads contain developmental themes is a question Alozie explores He finds that some ads do contain developmental themes such as savings self development modernization investment hard work competition etc These themes however appear rather infrequently Financial institutions emphasize developmental themes while manufacturing enterprises do not The author underscores the need for the government to encourage private and public corporations to include developmental themes in their advertising messages to promote individual as well as communal or collective interests messages the author draws some broad conclusions that provide significant insight into Nigeria s prevailing advertising scene For example he concludes that the degree of information on products and services available in the country is inadequate because of low level advertising Even though developmental themes are employed in advertising messages the sparsity of their use is not likely to promote national development Broadcast advertisements are more democratic than those in the print media primarily because they promote products and services more affordable to the average consumer In general consumer products advertised in Nigeria are frequently of foreign origin and therefore they are targeted to the elite who can afford the expensive nonessential products The author recognizes the value and need for advertising that can disseminate not only beneficial information about products and services but can also serve as an effective tool in government's hands to promote information on significant social and developmental issues and policies that will affect the public scholars and researchers have contributed to the sizeable existing literature on development few have examined advertising as a meaningful means of communication for developmental messages and values Through his study Alozie has attempted to fill this void Students and scholars with an interest in the media of developing nations will find the articulation of the various theories concerning socio economic development quite stimulating But more importantly by answering a range of significant questions about the nature and types of advertising messages published or aired in the Nigerian mass media discussing what themes and values they contain and how relevant they are or influence the developmental goals of the nation the author offers a study that is useful insightful and rewarding

The Complete Guide to Monkeypox Dr. W. Ness, 2024-08-16 Monkeypox though less known than diseases like COVID 19 or Ebola is a significant public health challenge particularly in regions where the virus is endemic First identified in monkeys in 1958 monkeypox primarily spreads to humans through contact with wild animals and can also be transmitted between people Historically confined to Central and West Africa the virus occasionally caused contained outbreaks However in 2022 monkeypox surged unexpectedly across multiple countries outside Africa raising global concerns about its spread and highlighting gaps in public health preparedness This resurgence underscores the interconnected nature of global health and the challenges posed by emerging infectious diseases It also reveals vulnerabilities in health infrastructure surveillance and response systems especially for less well known diseases Environmental factors like deforestation and wildlife trafficking further complicate the situation by driving the emergence and re emergence of zoonotic diseases like monkeypox The response to monkeypox emphasizes the need for a proactive and comprehensive approach to managing infectious diseases International cooperation strong national health systems and clear communication are crucial in addressing these outbreaks The recent spread of monkeypox is a reminder of the ongoing threat posed by zoonotic diseases and the importance of vigilance preparedness and global collaboration to prevent future outbreaks and protect public health
