
We are in the midst of a 'research-bourgeois' revolution within higher education in the UK. Part of the global project of neo-liberalism to strengthen the link between money and work, and driven by research assessment, diverse research use-values are being subordinated to homogeneous RAE-value. Academic research workers are becoming alienated from the product of their labour. Once freely available to all academics, "intellectual commons"—well-stocked library, material security, time and other resources—are being enclosed, access becoming dependent upon production of RAE-value. Two new classes are emerging in academia as some research workers are forced to alienate their own research-labour-power, selling their ability to carry out research work to 'research capitalists', who are able to appropriate a portion of the RAE-value which results.

Alienation, Class and Enclosure in UK Universities

David Harvie

Introduction

The working conditions of many academics in UK universities have deteriorated sharply over the past two decades or so, even if 'for many the academic labour process remains in its core activities [of teaching, research, scholarship, counselling and administration] remarkably constant' in terms of the type of work performed (Miller, 1991: 111). There have been dramatic and drastic changes in higher education: university budgets, together with funding in general, such as student grants, have been cut; student numbers have increased; and, assessment of both teaching and research has been introduced with a vengeance. There has been a consequent effect on academic workloads. Academics have been squeezed by pressure from three sources. First, there is an increased number of students: a system designed to impart learning to a small elite, as well as providing an element of pastoral care, is now struggling to adjust to mass education. Second, related to the burgeoning student population, and despite the employment of dedicated administrators in many

Alienation and Class Richard Schmitt,1983 Alienation and Class Consciousness in a Simulated Work Setting Kwame Richard Charles,1980 Class, Culture, and Alienation William A. Rushing,1972 Race, Class, and Culture Robert Charles Smith,Richard Seltzer (Ph. D.),1992-01-01 Race is arguably the most profound and enduring cleavage in American society and politics This book examines the sources and dynamics of the race cleavage in American society through a detailed analysis of intergroup and intragroup differences at the level of mass opinion The ethclass theory which examines the intersection of ethnicity and class is used to analyze interracial differences in mass attitudes This analysis yields three clusters of opinion that distinguish African Americans from whites religiosity interpersonal alienation and political liberalism The authors then examine the intragroup sources of these opinion differences among blacks in terms of class gender age region and religion While the authors demonstrate an embryonic trend of more black middle class opinion agreement with whites the book confirms the ethclass character of the black experience whereby race and race consciousness are still more significant than class in shaping black attitudes Given the growing class bifurcation in black America and the continuing debate about its significance in shaping black attitudes and behavior this book offers a refreshing new analysis of the homogeneity as well as heterogeneity of black mass public opinion Regional Imbalances and Working-class Consciousness Erik Allardt,1963 Alienation and Working-class Consciousness Richard F. Scheig,1981 The Marxist Theory of Alienation Ernest Mandel,George Edward Novack,1973 Alienation from one s fellow human beings is rooted in the development of class society itself the authors argue It can be overcome only through the revolutionary fight for a society both free of domination by the capitalist class and with complete democratic control of the government and economy by working people Columbia Law Review ,1926 The Law of Wills William Herbert Page,1926 Cases on Future Interests and Illegal Conditions and Restraints Albert Martin Kales,1917 A Treatise on the Law of Real Property as Applied Between Vendor and Purchaser in Modern Conveyancing, Or, Estates in Fee and Their Transfer by Deed Leonard Augustus Jones,1896 Race and Class in American Society H. Edward Ransford,1994 A Philosophy of Intellectual Property Peter Drahos,2016-12-05 Are intellectual property rights like other property rights More and more of the world s knowledge and information is under the control of intellectual property owners What are the justifications for this What are the implications for power and for justice of allowing this property form to range across social life Can we look to traditional property theory to supply the answers or do we need a new approach Intellectual property rights relate to abstract objects objects like algorithms and DNA sequences The consequences of creating property rights in such objects are far reaching A Philosophy of Intellectual Property argues that lying at the heart of intellectual property are duty bearing privileges We should adopt an instrumentalist approach to intellectual property and reject a proprietarian approach an approach which emphasizes the connection between labour and property rights The analysis draws on the history of
