American Set Design Two:

Play Directing Francis Hodge, Michael McLain, 2015-11-19 Play Directing describes the various roles a director plays from selection and analysis of the play to working with actors and designers to bring the production to life. The authors emphasize that the role of the director as an artist leader collaborating with actors and designers who look to the director for partnership in achieving their fullest most creative expressions. The text emphasizes how the study of directing provides an intensive look at the structure of plays and acting and of the process of design of scenery, costume, lighting, and sound that together make a produced play.

Great North American Stage Directors Volume 7 James Peck, 2024-01-25 This volume focuses on three artists who embrace media and technology as essential elements of their theatrical expression: Elizabeth LeCompte, Ping Chong, and Robert Lepage. Diverse in their aesthetic interests, they nevertheless share an approach to directing that includes technological media on stage as central to a rigorously crafted production concept. Technological elements live alongside and negotiate with the theatre's human players, disclosing, shaping, and even intruding on the dramas they enact. The essays in this volume explore how all three directors have provided decisive responses to a question that has dogged the theatre for at least the last century: what relationship can theatre, an art form grounded in live ephemeral expression, have to technology? The Great North American Stage Directors series provides an authoritative account of the art of directing in North America by examining the work of twenty-four major practitioners from the late 19th century to the present. Each of the eight volumes examines three directors and offers an overview of their practices, theoretical ideas, and contributions to modern theatre. The studies chart the life and work of each director, placing his or her achievement in the context of other important theatre practitioners and broader social history. Written by a team of leading experts, the series presents the genealogy of directing in North America while simultaneously chronicling crucial trends and championing contemporary interpretation.
