55 Days At Peking:

55 Days at Peking Samuel Edwards, 1963 Destination Hollywood Larry Langman, 2000 During the first part of the twentieth century Hollywood experienced an influx of European filmmakers seeking new lives in America With them came unique perspectives and styles from their home countries that forever affected American film production Well known talents like Charlie Chaplin Billy Wilder and Alfred Hitchcock all made America their filmmaking base as did other less known but equally influential filmmakers This is the complete guide to directors screenwriters artistic directors cinematographers and composers of European birth who made at least one film in the United States The book is arranged by country and each chapter begins with that country s cinema history Each filmmaker from that country is then given a separate entry including biographical and professional highlights and synopses and analyses of their better known films Photographs from films that featured European talent are included An index of names and titles allows for easy reference and a complete bibliography is also included

to Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson Wills provides a compelling treatment of Heston's long and successful career Gary W Gallagher author of The Confederate War Brian Steel Wills captures for the first time a comprehensive view of Charlton Heston's climb to fame his search for the perfect performance and the meaningful roles he played in support of the causes he embraced in Running the Race The Public Face of Charlton Heston The actor was born and raised in the Michigan woodlands and suburbs of Chicago where he found his love of acting in the books he read and the movies he saw After the Second World War interrupted his journey when he served his country the lights of New York City and Broadway beckoned Live television offered an important platform but Hollywood and feature films were his destiny His roles were as varied as they were powerful and included stints as Moses Ben Hur El Cid Michelangelo Mike Vargas and Charles Chinese Gordon under legendary directors like Cecil B DeMille William Wyler Franklin Schaffner and Orson Welles He shifted to science fiction in Planet of the Apes and Soylent Green a wide range of action and disaster films and more nuanced roles such as Will Penny Over his decades of performance Heston defined and redefined his public face in a constant quest for an audience for his work He undertook wide ranging public service roles for the government the arts and other causes In Running the Race award winning historian Brian Steel Wills digs deep to paint a rich portrait of Heston's extraordinary life a mix of complications and complexities that touched film television theater politics and society

The Art of Selling Movies John McElwee, 2017-02-20 The Art of Selling Movies presents the first ever look at 60 years of newspaper advertising for motion pictures great and small These ads created by Hollywood and adapted by local and regional exhibitors motivated patrons to leave their homes part with precious income and spend time in the dark Because of the high stakes involved theater operators used wildly creative means to make that happen They made movie advertising equal parts art and psychology appealing to every human instinct especially sex in an effort to push product and keep their theatres in business From the pen and ink masterpieces of the 1920s and 30s to location specific folk art to ad space jam packed with enticements for every member of the family The Art of Selling Movies dissects the psyche of the American movie going public and the advertisers seeking to push just the right buttons

From Fu Manchu to Kung Fu Panda Naomi Greene, 2014-06-01 Throughout the twentieth century American filmmakers have embraced cinematic representations of China Beginning with D W Griffith's silent classic Broken Blossoms 1919 and ending with the computer animated Kung Fu Panda 2008 this book explores China's changing role in the American imagination Taking viewers into zones that frequently resist logical expression or more orthodox historical investigation the films suggest the welter of intense and conflicting impulses that have surrounded China They make clear that China has often served as the very embodiment of otherness a kind of yardstick or cloudy mirror of America itself It is a mirror that reflects not only how Americans see the racial other but also a larger landscape of racial sexual and political perceptions that touch on the ways in which the nation envisions itself and its role in the world In the United States the exceptional emotional charge that imbues images of China has tended to swing violently from positive to negative and back again China has been loved and as is generally the case today feared Using film to trace these dramatic fluctuations author Naomi Greene relates them to the larger arc of historical and political change Suggesting that filmic images both reflect and fuel broader social and cultural impulses she argues that they reveal a constant tension or dialectic between the self and the other Significantly with the important exception of films made by Chinese or Chinese American directors the Chinese other is almost invariably portrayed in terms of the American self Placed in a broader context this ethnocentrism is related both to an ever present sense of American exceptionalism and to a Manichean world view that perceives other countries as friends or enemies From Fu Manchu to Kung Fu Panda chronicles the struggle within Hollywood film to come to grips with American ambivalence toward China as a nation against the backdrop of its current economic and geopolitical ascendancy on the world stage Reaching back to early film portrayals of Chinatown Christian missionaries warlords and perverse villains bent on world domination Greene moves from the yellow peril to the red menace as she examines WWII and Cold War cinema She also explores the range of film fantasies circulating today from films about Tibet to Chinese American independent features and the global popularity of kung fu cartoons This accessible book allows these films to speak to the post 9 11 Occupy Wall Street generation and makes a welcome contribution to debates about Hollywood Orientalism and transnational Chinese film connections Gina Marchetti author of The Chinese Diaspora on American Screens Race Sex and Cinema A significant work of filmography Naomi Greene s book explores the exotic at times menacing but always fantastic images of China flickering on the silver screen of the American imagination The author writes lucidly jargon free and with the sure footedness of a seasoned scholar Yunte Huang author of Charlie Chan The Untold Story of the Honorable Detective and His Rendezvous with American History Box Office ,1963 Cue ,1963 Records & Briefs New York State Appellate Division , Catalog of Copyright Entries Library of Congress. Perkins on Movies* Douglas Pye,2020-11-10 The collected shorter film criticism of one of the most brilliant English language film critics Victor Perkins 1936 2016 was a foundational figure for the study of film both as a writer and as an educationalist and teacher who played a key role in establishing film within British higher education Best known for his 1972 book Film as Film Perkins has a worldwide reputation within film studies that has been enhanced in recent years by the interest among emerging scholars in the practices of detailed film criticism His extensive writing in journals and edited collections spanning sixty years is less well known despite its importance and quality partly because much of it was published in small magazines with limited distribution V F Perkins on Movies Collected Shorter Film Criticism edited by Douglas Pye makes it possible to see his writing as a coherent body of work developed over a long career and to appreciate its great historical and cultural significance Part 1 of the book covers Perkins s early articles from 1960 to 1972 showing the emergence of ways of thinking about criticism and movies that remained constant throughout his career Perkins was one of a small group of British writers who pioneered the serious and systematic discussion of

Hollywood cinema Beginning at the University of Oxford in the pages of Oxford Opinion and then in Movie the journal they established in 1962 these writers mounted a sustained critique of established writing on film arguing for a criticism rooted in the detailed decisions that make up the complex texture of a film The work Perkins published in the 1980s and beyond which makes up part 2 of this volume was resolute in upholding his critical values It elaborated his approach in studies of individual movies and their makers and also reflected on major critical and conceptual issues while maintaining his lifelong commitment to writing accessibly in ordinary language V F Perkins on Movies gives unimpeded access to one of the most distinctive and distinguished of critical voices and will be widely welcomed by academics students of film and informed film enthusiasts
