Prophetically Incorrect Robert H. Jr. Woods, Paul D. Patton, 2010-08-01 The Bible includes prophetic speech and at times the church and its representatives are called to speak prophetically But in our media saturated age when many claim to speak for God how can we evaluate the avalanche of supposedly prophetic speech What does it mean to truly be prophetic And when Christians should speak prophetically how can they do so in a biblical and effective way Using vivid examples this book offers clear guidelines for creating critiquing and consuming popular media as well as practical suggestions for faithful communication It also helps readers think critically about communication technology The book includes a foreword by Quentin Schultze and a preface by Clifford Christians The Art of Dialogue Ineke de Feijter, 2007 Media and culture are deeply intertwined in contemporary society Religions have problems relating to this media culture which is shaped by media processes and conditioned by digital media and interactive forms of communication Media set the agenda and they profoundly challenge religions both with respect to their public communication and their very existence and public relevance People increasingly use media for shaping their religious identity and their search with respect to questions of ultimate meaning Barely any theological studies exist that reflect on religious policies and their subsequent praxis in the field of communication The author analyzes Christian policy views and identifies the main problems and opportunities in relating to media culture

Constructs HeeKap Lee,2010-08-09 Constructivism is everywhere It is a hot issue at this time in the field of philosophy education technology and religion However can constructivism be an alternative approach in faith based education While some conclude that Jesus knew learning was an active knowledge creating process and that he always encouraged his disciples to think deeply and go beyond the surface level others would find that constructivism undercuts faith based education because of its claims to relativity For example constructivists claim that meaning is imposed on the world by us rather than existing in the world independently from us Thus they proclaim that truth is relative to particular times places and people Christians hold that truth does exist absolutely So how can there be a way forward for faith based educators who see the good in the constructivist approach In Faith Based Education that Constructs readers will find a unique approach whereby constructivism may appropriately be applied to a faith based education setting Although disagreement can occur between constructivism and faith based education this book concludes that constructivist thought and Christian faith based education are in the end congruent and harmonious in significant ways Those faith based educators who continue to hold cautionary views of radical constructivist assertions against absolute truths need not disregard all other aspects of constructivism
