Technology in Society Mirosława Wawrzak-Chodaczek, Jolanta Kowal, Anna Maria Kuzio, Henryk Żeligowski, Krystyna Ostapiuk, 2015

Communicating Science and Technology in Society Ana Delicado, Fabienne Crettaz Von Roten, Katarina Prpić, 2020-11-22 This volume addresses the engagement between science and society from multiple viewpoints At a time when trust in experts is being questioned misinformation is rife and scientific and technological development show growing social impact the volume examines the challenges in involving the public in scientific debates and decisions It takes into account societal needs and concerns in research and analyses the interface between the roles of institutions and individuals

From environmental challenges to science communication participatory technological design to animal experimentation and transdisciplinarity to norms and values in science the volume brings together research on areas in which scientists and citizens interact across diverse often understudied socio cultural contexts in Europe It encompasses the natural sciences engineering and the social sciences and the chapters follow diverse theoretical frameworks and methodologies including both quantitative and qualitative approaches This volume contributes not just to scholarly knowledge on the topic of science and society relations but also provides useful information for students policy makers journalists and STEM science technology engineering and mathematics researchers keen on engaging with their publics and conducting responsible research and innovation

The Good ICT Society Gunilla Bradley,2017-06-14 Taking the reader through a quick analysis of the current social and psychological changes in the Information and Communication Society Bradley challenges us to avoid becoming victims of technology whether we are professionals policymakers parents or citizens

Mobile Communication and Society Manuel Castells,2007 Wireless networks are the fastest growing communications technology in history Are mobile phones expressions of identity fashionable gadgets tools for life or all of the above Mobile Communication and Society looks at how the possibility of multimodal communication from anywhere to anywhere at any time affects everyday life at home at work and at school and raises broader concerns about politics and culture both global and local Drawing on data gathered from around the world the authors explore who has access to wireless technology and why and analyze the patterns of social differentiation seen in unequal access They explore the social effects of wireless communication what it means for family life for example when everyone is constantly in touch or for the idea of an office when workers can work anywhere Is the technological ability to multitask further compressing time in our already hurried existence The authors consider the rise of a mobile youth culture based on peer to peer networks with its own language of texting and its own values They examine the phenomenon of flash mobs and the possible political implications And they look at the relationship between communication and development and the possibility that developing countries could leapfrog directly to wireless and satellite technology This sweeping book moving easily in its analysis from the United States to China from Europe to Latin America and Africa answers the key questions about our transformation into a mobile network society

Modern Communication Technology in a Changing Society Godwin C. Chu,Brent Cassan,1977

The Media in the Network Society Gustavo Cardoso,2006 In the Network Society the development of a new communicational model has been taking shape A communicational model characterized by the fusion of interpersonal communication and mass communication connecting audiences and broadcasters under a hypertextual matrix linking several media devices The Networked Communication model is the informational societies communication model A model that must be understood also in its needed literacies for building our media diets media matrixes and on how it s changing the way autonomy is managed and citizenship exercised in the Information Age In this book Gustavo Cardoso develops an analysis that focusing on the last decade takes us from Europe to North America and from South America to Asia combining under the framework of the Network Society a broad range of scientific perspectives from Media Studies to Political Science and Social Movements theory to Sociology of Communication Media Technologies Tarleton Gillespie, Pablo J. Boczkowski, Kirsten A. Foot, 2014 In recent years scholarship around media technologies has finally shed the assumption that these technologies are separate from and powerfully determining of social life looking at them instead as produced by and embedded in distinct social cultural and political practices Communication and media scholars have increasingly taken theoretical perspectives originating in science and technology studies STS while some STS scholars interested in information technologies have linked their research to media studies inquiries into the symbolic dimensions of these tools In this volume scholars from both fields come together to advance this view of media technologies as complex sociomaterial phenomena This text first addresses the relationship between materiality and mediation considering such topics as the lived realities of network infrastructure It then highlights media technologies as always in motion held together through the minute unobserved work of many including efforts to keep these technologies alive
