Community Based Nursing Care:

Introduction to Community Based Nursing Roberta Hunt, Eilkeem L. Zurek, 1996-12-31 This is the instructor's manual to accompany Introduction to Community Based Nursing. The main text focuses on nursing care of the individual in a community setting and is divided into four units that cover the knowledge base for concepts and the application of concepts. A Guide for Community-based Nursing Services Council of Community Health Nurses (American Nurses Association), 1985

Introduction to Community-based Nursing Roberta Hunt, 2009 This text presents foundational concepts pivotal to delivering nursing care in the community setting with specific attention to the NLN competencies for community based nursing care. The author examines the variety of settings and situations in which the community based nurse provides care highlighting cultural diversities in the patient populations and emphasizing interactions between the individual and the family. This edition includes more information on disaster management and communicable diseases and expanded updated Medicare/Medicaid guidelines. A companion Website on thePoint will include student activities, assessment guidelines, and forms. Instructors will have access to an Instructor's Manual, PowerPoint slides, and an expanded testbank.

Community-based Nursing Melanie McEwen, 1998 This straightforward practical resource focuses on health promotion and illness prevention while also addressing the nursing care of persons with routine and chronic conditions. It discusses the factors that affect health and health care delivery including epidemiology, environmental health issues, and cultural influences. It examines the unique community based nursing needs of specific client populations such as women, infants and children, and the elderly, clients with HIV Infection and AIDS, and clients with mental health conditions. It provides practical tools for use in all areas of community health from assessment and screening recommendations to detailed information on health teaching and suggestions for improving nursing care. It emphasizes Healthy People 2000 objectives and strategies throughout and lists resources within each chapter that provide contact information for important agencies and institutions. year and 9.6 million cancer deaths per year. A number of factors appear to be driving this increase, in particular a growing and aging global population and an increase of exposure to cancer risk factors linked to social and economic development. For rapidly growing economies, the data suggests a shift from poverty or infection-related cancers to those associated with lifestyles more typical in industrialized countries. There is still large geographical diversity in cancer occurrence and variations in the magnitude and profile of the disease between and within world regions. There are specific types of cancer that dominate globally: lung, female breast, and colorectal cancer, and the regional variations in common cancer types signal the extent to which societal, economic, and lifestyle changes interplay to differentially impact on the profile of this most complex group of diseases. Unfortunately, despite advances in cancer care, a significant proportion of patients at home experience sub-optimal outcomes. Barriers to successful treatment outcomes include, but are not limited to, access to oncologists in the primary health centers, non-adherence, lack of experienced oncology and palliative care nurses in the community, inadequate monitoring, and the lack of training of family and pediatric physicians. Telemedicine approaches, including telephone triage, education, telemonitoring, teleconsultation, and status tracking through mobile applications, have shown promise in further improving outcomes, in particular for chronic cancer patients following their hospitalization. Lessons can be learned from existing hospices in North America, the United Kingdom, Australia, Centers of Excellence in Africa (Uganda), and modern community services in India (Kerala). An important goal of this book is to describe and encourage professionals to develop new community programs in palliative care, which include training and empowering physicians and nurses in the community on the principles of palliative care. The Middle East Cancer Consortium (MECC), together with the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) and the American Oncology Nursing Society (ONS), have conducted multiple courses ranging from basic palliative care to more specialized training in palliative care for multiple nationalities in Europe, Asia, and Africa. Our experience clearly indicates that to promote such activities, one needs strong leadership and confirmed political will to support the endeavor. The new book will emphasize the importance of having a core of multiple stakeholders, including community leaders, government, NGOs, and media, to be actively involved in advocating for the cause and generating public awareness. This text will provide the reader with a comprehensive understanding of the outside of the hospital treatment of cancer patients by medical, paramedical, and volunteer personnel. In doing so, this text will encourage the creation of new palliative care services, improving upon the existing ones, and stimulate further research in this field. Part 1 of the text will begin with an overview of the current state of affairs of services provided to cancer patients while being cared for by primary health centers. It will also review the current literature regarding medical and psychological-based therapy options in the community for cancer patients at different stages of their disease. Part 2 will address the unique role of the community nurse within the framework of the multidisciplinary team treating the patient in the attempt to provide optimal evaluation and care in very challenging situations, such as with terminal patients. Part 3 will provide insightful models of this new discipline and serve as a valuable resource for physicians nurses social workers and others involved in the care of cancer patients The book will take a multidisciplinary approach integrating clinical and environmental data for practical management to enhance the efficacy of treatment while relieving suffering Part 4 will also discuss the application of modern technological approaches to track symptoms quality of life diet mobility duration of sleep and medication use including pain killers in chronic cancer patients in the community Part 5 of the book will also be devoted to modes of developing a collaborative program between governmental and non governmental organization sectors This includes volunteer workers in close collaboration with medical professionals for providing emotional and spiritual support nursing care nutritional support and empowering family caregivers Such a model makes palliative care in the community a people s movement thus transferring part of the responsibility and ownership to the community

Understanding and promoting factors which affect healthy ageing: Physical Activity, Sleep Patterns and nutritional habits Stevo Popovic,Radenko M. Matic,Juel Jarani , David Paar,2024-09-26 A few clear factors are associated with living longer and healthier such as higher levels of physical activity good sleep patterns and proper nutrition However despite all the advances that have been made to increase the general population s physical activity improve their sleep patterns and boost their nutritional habits there is still a lot to be done This Research Topic aims to address the topic of healthy ageing and will consider manuscripts focused on the effects of improving these factors in all ages from childhood to old age We are mainly interested in questions of broader interventions at the individual home settings group school work and gerontology settings and societal level community based settings We also welcome papers investigating the short and long term effects of environmental factors on physical changes in children working and old age populations and their development Correlational and survey studies examining the issues mentioned above are welcome
