Easter Charade:

The Easter Charade Mona K. Gedney, 1992 Elizabeth convinces her impressionable cousin to avoid Andrew Norville's marriage proposal and then takes the girl to London's frivolous Easter festivities Norville follows and falls under the spell of a glorious London spring and for the attractive Elizabeth as well Regency Romance Hopdance Stewart Parker, 2017-04-01 In a great Irish tradition of autobiographical fiction that includes James Joyce's A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man and Seamus Deane's Reading in the Dark Parker's poignant novel depicts events surrounding the amputation of his left leg as a nineteen-year-old university student Masterful vignettes present the callow protagonist's life before, during, and after this ordeal Belfast drear locus of rain and despond contributes to the heaviness at the novel's heart as its characters strive to rise above the pervasive melancholy of the city and find some human happiness that they can share Tosh Parker's alter ego is drifting through life before his cancer diagnosis plagued by the twin cankers of a puzzling pain in the leg and a crippling loneliness The amputation forces him into a more authentic relationship with life which starts with the wound Ends with the kiss For the lucky ones This remarkable posthumously edited work largely written in the early 1970s prefigures the skills Parker would demonstrate in his plays plainspoken and stoical in tone the emotion seeps through a membrane of numb reserve The writing is impressionistically vivid the descriptions of pain and discomfort wholly authoritative Hopdance is a beautiful sincere personal testament by a true artist a wondrous lost treasure of literature now presented to its reading public

Who's Afraid of the Easter Rising? 1916-2016 James Heartfield, Kevin Rooney, 2015-11-27 One hundred years ago Easter 1916 Irish revolutionaries rose against the British Empire proclaiming a Republic from the steps of the General Post Office in Dublin The men and women of the Easter Rising were defeated by the overwhelming force of the British Army in five days of intense fighting Their leaders were executed But the Easter Rising lit a fire that ended with the whole country turning against Westminster's rule and founding a nation But today the heirs to the Irish state are embarrassed about 1916 They are ashamed that their state owes its origins to a revolution Along with academics and other commentators in the press and on television they dismiss the Rising as the work of violent fanatics and the defeat of constitutional politics Who's Afraid of the Easter Rising explains why today's Dublin elite are recoiling from the origins of their state in a popular struggle Where the critics paint the Rising as an armed conspiracy we explain that it was in fact a revolt against war not a militaristic upsurge but the first challenge to the awful slaughter of the First World War The Statesmen of Europe sacrificed millions upon the altar of war Their recruiting sergeants in Ireland Edward Carson and John Redmond sent 200,000 Irishmen into the slaughter and nearly 50,000 were killed The Easter Rising drew a halt to British recruitment and the blow to the Empire was the first crack in a growing revolt against the war followed by the Russian Revolution in 1917 and the German revolution the following year which ended the conflict The Easter Rising was an inspiration to those who were challenging the Empires of Europe from India to Vietnam from New Zealand to Moscow it was an inspiration to British activists like John Maclean and

Sylvia Pankhurst and it was an inspiration to the Irish men and women who rose up against British rule to free their nation
