Changing The Future Redprint For Education:

Changing the Future Clyde Chitty,1991 A criticism of changes made and proposed for the education system Includes proposals for an integrated comprehensive education and training system from pre school to post 18 and beyond

Education And The Struggle For Democracy Carr, Wilfred,Hartnett, Anthony,1996-03-01 During the past decade there has been a series of radical changes to the educational system of England and Wales This book argues that any serious study of these changes has to engage with complex questions about the role of education in a modern liberal democracy Were these educational changes informed by the needs and aspirations of a democratic society To what extent will they promote democratic values and ideals These questions can only be adequately addressed by making explicit the political ideas and the underlying philosophical principles that have together shaped the English educational system To this end the book provides a selective history of English education which exposes the connections between decisive periods of educational change and the intellectual and political climate in which it occurred It also connects the educational policies of the 1980s and 90s to the political ideas of the New Right in order to show how they are part of a broader political strategy aimed at reversing the democratic advances achieved through the intellectual and political struggles of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The book proposes that a democratic educational vision can only effectively be advanced by renewing the struggle for democracy the historical struggle to create forms of education which will empower all citizens to participate in an open pluralistic and democratic society

Disestablishing the School James Tooley,2017-07-05 This book arrives at a defence of markets in educational provision funding and regulation through a philosophical challenge to justifications for state intervention in education

Education for Sustainability Stephen Sterling,John Huckle,2014-08-07 Now with new Introduction and additional new chapter At a time when polls suggest that a majority of young British people believe that the future will offer a worse quality of life than the present it is becoming imperative that children are introduced to principles of sustainability through the educational system from an early age and that these principles are regularly reinforced and built upon The government's own Panel on Sustainable Development has called for a comprehensive strategy for environmental and training and NGOs frequently point to education as a key policy instrument in the transition to sustainable development This is the first book published in Britain to provide an overview of the theory and practice of these issues It brings together contributions from environmental educators working in the formal and informal sectors and in continuing education and provides perspectives on the philosophy politics and pedagogy of education for sustainability as well as case studies and pointers towards good practice Part I establishes some initial perspectives on sustainability education and the role of NGOs the potential for education for sustainability in the formal and informal sectors is assessed in Parts II and III Part IV discusses its development as part of the greening of business and local government and Part V looks at the way forward

Education Make You Fick, Innit? Martin Allen,Patrick Ainley,2007 This book connects teachers and students in schools colleges and universities in England and Wales to ask what has happened to education in a mass system of lifelong learning from primary to postgraduate schooling It explains how allegations of dumbing down and deskilling contrast with claims of rising standards for a world class workforce showing how education has become the main means of social control in an increasingly divided and self destructive society Rather than emancipating the minds of future generations it forecloses their possibilities In this sense Education Make You Fick Innit Ainley and Allen argue that to understand how this occurred and what can be done about it the system has to be understood as a whole What is happening in schools makes sense only in relation to similar systems of management and control in FE and HE where privatisation in particular is in many ways more advanced They detail successive perversions of the comprehensive ideal for schools to the latest personalisation agenda that stretches across the new raised leaving age of 18 showing how competition and control combine to set institutions and individuals against one another in a market for inflated qualifications They reject the relentless testing and selection of students in prolonged training that still does not guarantee employment From their experience of teaching and researching in schools FE and HE the authors call for democratic control to reverse privatisation and maintain free provision so as to remain true to the Enlightenment ideal of understanding society in order to change it
