Catastrophe Risk And Response:

Catastrophe Richard A. Posner, 2004-11-11 Catastrophic risks are much greater than is commonly appreciated Collision with an asteroid runaway global warming voraciously replicating nanomachines a pandemic of gene spliced smallpox launched by bioterrorists and a world ending accident in a high energy particle accelerator are among the possible extinction events that are sufficiently likely to warrant careful study How should we respond to events that for a variety of psychological and cultural reasons we find it hard to wrap our minds around Posner argues that realism about science and scientists innovative applications of cost benefit analysis a scientifically literate legal profession unprecedented international cooperation and a pragmatic attitude toward civil liberties are among the keys to coping effectively with the catastrophic risks
