Caglar's theory grounded in cognitive psychology and behaviorism, outlines the essential learning, intellectual skills, cognitive competencies, critical thinking skills, problem-solving, and attitudes. It is Peter Bruntz and Bruntz's later work in research, but identifying because these cognitive learning outcomes. These works include gaining writing skills, understanding, structure and organization, understanding how to gain knowledge, generating content, providing, learning objectives, all writing performance through student, peer, using feedback, assessing performance, and understanding, research and thesis. These steps are critical for creating a structured and effective learning environment. The importance of gaining structure and providing feedback is highlighted, as they help learners understand their progress and ensure learning objectives are met. This structured approach is emphasized, but authors also mention that students need the freedom in the learning process.

The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is an exceptional and gripping novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
