The Language of Marginality and Subjectivity in a Global Context Roberta Piazza, Helen Ringrow, Sergio Maruenda-Bataller, Carmen Gregori-Signes, 2026-02-05 This book expands and deepens the investigation of the language associated with or produced by groups that are socially culturally racially and economically outliers and whose marginalisation results in a different engagement with and participation in mainstream society's activities It features case studies from across the globe including Ghana Norway Poland Saudi Arabia South Africa and Zambia addressing the construction and self construction of marginalisation and diversity in discourse and society bringing to light many unheard and hidden voices and perspectives The 14 chapters explore a wide range of forms of marginalisation and diversity as global issues that have an impact on societies worldwide in terms of exclusion in the guise of non participation in mainstream society's activities and contestation in different international contexts The contributions in the book capture how vulnerable individuals and groups occupying the in between spaces of marginality navigate through them and construct themselves as dissenting and diverse how they are aware of their condition at a certain point in time and how they are able to reflect resourcefully on it Aspiration to a safe place away from the street for individuals at risk of rough sleeping can find an echo in the desire to escape the oppression of a despotic regime that limits Saudi women's freedom On the contrary cases of negative self exclusion are exemplified by the language of Men's Rights Activists who critical of society's oppression of men engage in a condemnation of women and feminism In both cases there is a conflict between periphery of society and mainstream although the language of the excluded still engages with the hegemonic society in a form of intrinsic contestation

The Mizo Uprising Dr. J. V. Hluna,Rini Tochwawng,2013-01-03

From March 1 1966 when the Mizo National Front declared independence to June 30 1986 when a Memorandum of Understanding was signed between the MNF and the Indian Government the peace loving Mizo people were caught in the midst of a devastating war Records of this twenty year period are rare as the very keeping of written accounts was considered a crime against the government The Mizo Hills was a district in India s state of Assam and the Assam Legislative Assembly Debates from 1966 to 1972 are one of the few official records available of the period Members of the Assembly bring to light significant events during the course of the insurgency including India s only aerial attack against its own citizens on March 5 1966 and the re settlement of eighty percent of the Mizo Hills population reminiscent of South Vietnam s Agrovilles The book traces the twenty year movement through these debates supplementing them with notes on the course of events gleaned through extensive research leading up to the creation of the state of Mizoram in 1986 The Mizo Peace Accord remains one of the most successful accords in the world and Mizoram one of the most peaceful states in India

The Global Challenge and Marginalization Márcio Moraes Valença, 2008 Marginality is often seen as a reflection of division in which there is an unequal relationship of economic and political power between two extremes In this way it is a common thing to find oppositional couples like North South Rich Poor Homogenous Heterogenous Centre Periphery Inclusion Exclusion Developed Underdeveloped and New Old in much of the literature dealing with marginality These oppositions come about out of a socially and politically unbalanced society which is organised according to the differentiation of individuals in a hierarchical exclusionary fashion In this book there are 25 chapters written by 36 academics from 27 universities located in 14 countries and in 4 continents on this fascinating subject matter

Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities Andrew J. Fuligni, 2007-05-31 Since the end of legal segregation in schools most research on educational inequality has focused on economic and other structural obstacles to the academic achievement of disadvantaged groups But in Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities a distinguished group of psychologists and social scientists argue that stereotypes about the academic potential of some minority groups remain a significant barrier to their achievement This groundbreaking volume examines how low institutional and cultural expectations of minorities hinder their academic success how these stereotypes are perpetuated and the ways that minority students attempt to empower themselves by redefining their identities The contributors to Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities explore issues of ethnic identity and educational inequality from a broad range of disciplinary perspectives drawing on historical analyses social psychological experiments interviews and observation Meagan Patterson and Rebecca Bigler show that when teachers label or segregate students according to social categories even in subtle ways students are more likely to rank and stereotype one another so educators must pay attention to the implicit or unintentional ways that they emphasize group differences Many of the contributors contest John Ogbu s theory that African Americans have developed an oppositional culture that devalues academic effort as a form of acting white Daphna Oyserman and Daniel Brickman in their study of black and Latino youth find evidence that strong identification with their ethnic group is actually associated with higher academic motivation among minority youth Yet as Julie Garcia and Jennifer Crocker find in a study of African American female college students the desire to disprove negative stereotypes about race and gender can lead to anxiety low self esteem and excessive self defeating levels of effort which impede learning and academic success The authors call for educational institutions to diffuse these threats to minority students identities by emphasizing that intelligence is a malleable rather than a fixed trait

Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities reveals the many hidden ways that educational opportunities are denied to some social groups At the same time this probing and wide ranging anthology provides a fresh perspective on the creative ways that these groups challenge stereotypes and attempt to participate fully in the educational system

The History of Discrimination in U.S. Education E. Tamura,2008-02-15 How have power and agency been revealed in educational issues involving minorities More specifically how have politicians policymakers practitioners and others in the mainstream used and misused their power in relation to those in the margins How have those in the margins asserted their agency and negotiated their way within the larger society What have been the relationships not only between those more powerful and those less powerful but also among those on the fringes of society How have people sought to bridge the gap separating those in the margins and those in the mainstream The essays in this book respond to these questions by delving into the educational past to reveal minority issues involving ethnicity gender class disability and sexual identity

Journal of Peace Studies ,1997 Revisiting North East India in the Era of Globalisation Asok Kumar Ray,2007 The Book Review ,2003 Guide to Indian Periodical Literature ,2003 The Crisis of the State & Regionalism in West Africa W. Alade Fawole,Charles Ukeje,2005 This collection of essays critically interrogates the internal dimensions of the identity and citizenship crises at the root of the political crises of states in West Africa and considers the steps that have been taken thus far to address them It shows how the progressive alienation of ordinary people from the state coupled with factors of historical identity and post colonial citizenship are at the heart of the political crisis and conflicts in the region and argues that these matters must be addressed if West African states are to achieve democratic nationhood

Disability Studies in India Renu Addlakha,2020-11-29 Since the 1970s the international disability rights movement the United Nations and national governments across the world have attempted to ameliorate the status of the disabled population through a range of legislative and policy measures primarily in the areas of health education employment accessible environments and social security While the discourse in the disability sector in India has shifted from charity and welfare to human rights and entitlements disability studies as an interdisciplinary academic terrain that focuses on the contributions experiences history and culture of persons with disabilities has not yet taken root This volume collates some of the most recent pioneering work on disability studies from across the country The essays presented here engage with the concept of disability from a variety of disciplinary positions sociocultural contexts and subjective experiences within the overarching framework of the Indian reality The contributors including some with disabilities themselves provide a well rounded perspective in shifting focus from disability as a medical condition only needing clinical intervention to giving it due social and academic legitimacy This book outlines key issues that would be germane to any disability studies endeavour in India and South Asia and will appeal to academics activists institutions laypersons and professionals involved in social welfare sociology disability studies women s studies psychiatry rehabilitation and social and preventive medicine
