Alex Colville Tom Smart, Alex Colville, Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, 2003 In 1945 Alex Colville a young Canadian war artist from Amherst Nova Scotia was one of three painters admitted to the Bergen Belsen concentration camp as it was being liberated He would later become one of Canada's most celebrated artists In Alex Colville Return curator and writer Tom Smart suggests that metaphorically and artistically Colville has never stopped going back to the horrors that he witnessed in Germany Designed to accompany a major exhibition of Colville's recent paintings prints and drawings organized by the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia Alex Colville Return places Colville's recent work in the broader context of the artist's oeuvre Beginning with his formation as an artist Tom Smart suggests that the exacting naturalism and underlying sense of foreboding in Colville's renderings of everyday life result in part from his experience of the Holocaust Using recent paintings such as Embarkation and Dressing Room Smart traces the evolution of Colville's contemporary work back to his earlier pieces including the now famous Horse and Train and Ocean Limited In this insightful and provocative book featuring over 40 colour reproductions Smart demonstrates that Colville's images are more than superbly crafted depictions of a somewhat mythical world These complexly coded works command the disorder and chaos of trauma into order coherence and closure Today the world is disrupted once again by the atrocities of war and Smart's assessment of the wounds behind Colville's unique works of art resonates with special potency In a subliminal way art lovers have always understood that Colville's images are not benign comforting representations of the real world For the first time in Alex Colville Return Tom Smart gets to the bottom of this understanding revealing the pentimento of Colville's astonishing and gripping vision The Mystery of the Real Jeffrey Meyers, 2016-06-14 The work of Alex Colville O C 1920 2013 one of the great modern realist painters combines the Flemish detail of Andrew Wyeth the eerie foreboding of George Tooker and the anguished confrontations of Lucian Freud Behind the North Americans stands their common master Edward Hopper Colville's works are in many museums in Canada and Germany He has affinities with Max Beckmann and appeals to the German secondary virtues cleanliness punctuality love of order In a long life he resolutely opposed the fashionable currents of abstract and expressionistic art In contrast to Jackson Pollock's wild action painting Colville created paintings of contemplation and reflection As Jeffrey Meyers writes I spent several days with Colville on each of three visits from California to Wolfville I received seventy letters from him between August 1998 and April 2010 and kept thirty six of my letters to him He sent me photographs and slides of his work and in his eighties discussed the progress and meaning of the paintings he completed during the last decade of his life His handwritten letters precisely explaining his thoughts and feelings provide a rare and enlightening opportunity to compare my insights and interpretations with his own intentions and ideas He also discussed his family health sexuality politics reading travels literary interests our mutual friend Iris Murdoch response to my writing his work exhibitions sales of his pictures and of course the meaning of his art His letters reveal the challenges he faced during aging and illness and his determination to keep painting as health difficulties mounted He stopped writing to me when he became seriously ill two years before his death In this context the late paintings presented in colour in this book take on a new poignancy Impressionist Quartet Jeffrey Meyers,2016-04-01 In this book Jeffrey Meyers follows the lives of four Impressionist painters whose rebellious work was scorned by the critics and derided by their contemporaries The French art establishment dismissed them altogether and at the time their sold for very little Impressionist Quartet describes the relationships between these artists and how they struggle emotionally and intellectually to create a new way of seeing and representing the world Distance from the Belsen Heap Mark Celinscak,2015-11-26 Winner of the 2016 Vine Award for Nonfiction The Allied soldiers who liberated the Nazi concentration camp at Bergen Belsen in April 1945 were faced with scenes of horror and privation With breathtaking thoroughness Distance from the Belsen Heap documents what they saw and how they came to terms with those images over the course of the next seventy years On the basis of research in more than seventy archives in four countries Mark Celinscak analyses how these military personnel struggled with the intense experience of the camp how they attempted to describe what they had seen heard and felt to those back home and how their lives were transformed by that experience He also brings to light the previously unacknowledged presence of hundreds of Canadians among the camp s liberators including noted painter Alex Colville Distance from the Belsen Heap examines the experiences of hundreds of British and Canadian eyewitnesses to atrocity including war artists photographers medical personnel and chaplains A study of the complicated encounter between these Allied soldiers and the horrors of the Holocaust Distance from the Belsen Heap is a testament to their experience The 1930s Jean Clair,Pierre Théberge,2008 On the heels of the Roaring Twenties the 1930s which spanned from the economic crisis of 1929 to the outbreak of the Second World War was a dark decade Beyond similiar governmental mechanisms these regimes shared an ideology the will to create what they called the New Man This decade began with a more or less innocent dream of the theme of the original egg germination the harmonious growth of a fabric both biological and social but ended with the nightmarish discovery of the corpses in the concentration camps by the armies of liberation in 1945 BOOK JACKET Concepts Of Identity Katherine Hoffman,2018-10-08 Concepts of identity are complex and changing and in this book Katherine Hoffman examines images of individuals and families from ancient Egypt to the present more than two thirds of the book covers the twentieth century Through a comprehensive study of paintings sculpture photography film television and other media Hoffman provides eye open The Antioch Review John Donald Kingsley,2004 Canadian Books in Print.
