Online teaching practices Karin Bolldén,2015-04-21 The aim of this study was to describe and analyse online teaching practices in the Swedish higher education context The study had an online ethnographic approach and was based on empirical data on the teaching in two university courses The study rested primarily on observational data but interviews and available documents also formed the basis for analysis Empirical data were analysed with a perspective of practice theory a perspective within a sociomaterial account The results showed that online teaching was characterised by an embodied sociomaterial practice The teacher s body could be understood as both multiple and closely interwoven with technology Furthermore the teacher s body was used in the teaching situation to reduce technological complexity but also along with other forms of materiality to prefigure what kind of teaching would take place Teacher interventions in online environments could furthermore be understood as relational to both technology that is the virtual material arrangement and teachers doings and sayings that is the teaching practice Teacher interventions were aimed at making the arrangement intelligible for the students The study showed that teacher interventions arranged both students and information and communication technology ICT in order to make them work as a teaching practice The teaching practice that emerged was characterised as an interplay between virtual materiality and social practice where asymmetricrelations between teachers and the ICT prevailed Sociocultural Theory and the Pedagogical Imperative in L2 Education James P. Lantolf,Matthew E.

Poehner,2014-03-05 Explicating clearly and concisely the full implication of a praxis oriented language pedagogy this book argues for an approach to language teaching grounded in a significant scientific theory of human learning a stance that rejects the consumer approach to theory and the dichotomy between theory and practice that dominates SLA and language teaching This approach is based on Vygotsky s sociocultural theory according to which the two activities are inherently connected so that each is necessarily rooted in the other practice is the research laboratory where the theory is tested From the perspective of language education this is what is meant by the pedagogical imperative Sociocultural Theory and the Pedagogical Imperative in L2 Education Elaborates a new approach to dealing with the relationship between theory and practice an approach grounded in praxis the dialectical unity of theory and practice Presents an analysis of empirical research illustrating praxis based principles in real language classrooms Brings together cognitive linguistics and sociocultural theory the former provides the theoretical knowledge of language required of praxis and the latter furnishes the theoretical principles of learning and development also called for in a praxis approach Offers recommendations for redesigning teacher education programs Its timely focus on the theory practice gap in language education and its original approach to bridging it put this book at the cutting edge of thinking about Vygotskian sociocultural theory in applied
