THE DOG

Dogs - who are they?

They are domesticated members of various sub-species of the canine family. They have been bred over time (and often cross-bred) to have particular characteristics.

How long do dogs live?

A dog's lifespan can range from 10 years and upwards to the 100s.

Did you know...?

The oldest dog ever lived almost 30 years old. Many are fortunate to live long.

What do dogs eat?

A dog's diet depends on their age, health and breed as it is tailored to suit your pet's particular needs.

They typically eat a high-quality, complete diet that contains protein, fat, fibre, vitamins and minerals, including essential fatty acids.

There are guidelines for dog owners as to what to feed their dogs. It is important that they are consulted and not ignored. (They'll tell you your dog's needs.) They are a great source of research and help.

They also need access to fresh clean water at all times.

Did you know...?

Some owners find their dogs are better with frozen ground beef. They are one of the best of food items. However, it's important for the dog and the owner to be aware of the best. For a balanced diet, a veterinary professional should be consulted.
