Abstract: A new concept for Personal Communication System that achieves the ultimate object of all communications systems, to enable anyone to communicate anywhere with anyone else anywhere is proposed. This concept offers a personal area or network with subscriber access systems for both wired and radio systems. Its three principal concepts are: (1) assigning a personal identity such as a Personal Telecommunication Number for an individual, and the network traces the person's routing; (2) serving a fixed and portable units for radio line access; and (3) serving advanced functions such as the network playing the role of secretary. System architecture and some problems are also presented.

1. Introduction

Recently the information-intensive society has developed, and the social and cultural structure has changed to a great extent. A great variety of people demands the use of communication tools. Demand for advanced services that enable us to communicate conveniently with anyone anywhere is more and more increasing. In order to realize this type of user-oriented service, many kinds of systems are being studied or developed, such as mobile, automobile radio systems (MRS, IRS), and advanced cordless systems (MPT, LIS, Telecord, DCOM, TDD, etc.).

In international standardization, CCIR standardized in 1971, in the preliminary stage discussing a mobile radio system, several approaches, i.e. MRS and SCS, etc. In CCITT SG2, SG3, SG4, 5, and SGX, several subjects are discussed, for example, numbering, network functions, signaling, and so on (1)-(4).

There are many proposals proposed to offer big economic personal communication services to users by the mobile subscribers. However, with recently wide individual mobility, many users applied for radio systems, i.e. radio systems. The present work is a utilization efficiency must be improved to accommodate an indefinite number of subscribers, and a radio user number must be less than about 100-300 per cell. The radio area should also be rationalized to realize above-mentioned portable terminals that are accompanied for large periods can be for wireless power. Furthermore, in order to become a sufficient number of service areas, a large number of radio systems has to be set, and the more systems more have to be set in theory. It is difficult to set more radio systems. The number of service areas must also be set, and the other systems will increase the number of radio systems. As a result, the existing system configuration methods will agree very difficult problems in extending the service area.

For this reason we propose an advanced personal communication system in which each subscriber is located registration and contains a portable service offered by public communication networks. Configuration and mobile service developments can be realized by using public communication network facilities as transport systems. The proposed system enables user persons to afford a portable telephony service of large communication and service capacity.

2. Service Concept

- (1) Personal communication anytime and anywhere by using Personal Telecommunication Number (PTN).
- (2) Contact - Easily to contact with both wired and radio systems for various systems including very small electronic equipment terminals.
- (3) Mobility services according to user's choice and purpose.

Radio service design for service is shown in Fig. 1. The proposed system requires a mobile and fully stationary telephone sets, both the radio terminals. Services are available anywhere, such as home, office, or outdoors. The mobility should be less than or equal to that of mobile phone. A portable terminal is provided from the
