PREMO: A Framework for Multimedia Middleware David J. Duke, Ivan Herman, M. Operation Future Richard Rizkallah Rabbat, 1996 Computer education has grown from the state of concept to reality Multimedia laboratories are burgeoning in different universities and schools that are used to help professors in the curriculum The Internet has grown from an interesting research project to a world wide communication medium Information has become instantaneously available to everybody Computing power has grown exponentially to reach levels only seen in mainframes a couple of decades ago The computer is now a tool used in everyday life available in every home Research in the multimedia field has profited from that spread of computer technology which had an effect on the way knowledge is transmitted Computer education is now a reality but needs further development Allowing teachers to develop multimedia applications to use in the course curriculum and giving them access to the world of data within their software is an area of active research. This document describes research work I have conducted at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology MIT and the American University of Beirut AUB as part of a joint AUB MIT project. The project involved work on the AthenaMuse 2 multimedia authoring system as well as the use of AthenaMuse 2 to build a multimedia application in that case a language learning application that teaches Spanish Language learning lends itself to the use of the computer because of the communication and the media capabilities of computers. On the other hand using object oriented technology allows computer programmers to build on previous work thus allowing for flexibility and speed in the design and implementation of multimedia software. The work conducted on AthenaMuse 2 is a proof of concept in how the new generation of multimedia authoring systems allows for rapid development of educational software. The contribution to the field of networked object oriented multimedia is presented throughout this present document.

Advanced Multimedia Content Processing Shojiro Nishio, Fumio Kishino, 1999-03-24. This volume is the Proceedings of the First International Conference on Advanced Multimedia Content Processing AMCP 98. With the remarkable advances made in computer and communication hardware software system technologies we can now easily obtain large volumes of multimedia data through advanced computer networks and store and handle them in our own personal hardware. Sophisticated and integrated multimedia content processing technologies which are essential to building a highly advanced information based society are attracting ever increasing attention in various service areas including broadcasting publishing medical treatment entertainment and communications. The prime concerns of these technologies are how to acquire multimedia content data from the real world how to automatically organize and store these obtained data in databases for sharing and reuse and how to generate and create new attractive multimedia content using the stored data. This conference brings together researchers and practitioners from academia industry and public agencies to present and discuss recent advances in the acquisition management retrieval creation and utilization of large amounts of multimedia content. Artistic and innovative applications through the active use of multimedia content are also subjects of interest. The conference aims at covering the following particular areas:

- 1 Dynamic multimedia data modeling and intelligent structuring of content based on active bottom up and self organized strategies
- 2 Access architecture querying facilities and distribution mechanisms for multimedia content
