

COGNITIVE TOOLS

Cognitive tools are educational technologies that help students learn. They enable students to think more deeply about a topic or perform at a higher level than we would without them.

DEFINITION

Cognitive tools are “computational tools that can function as intellectual partners of the students, while they are engaged in discovery learning/constructivistic activities.” (Korres, 2019, p. 7) A cognitive tool does not do the thinking for students but provide strategies and guidance to help students to process information more efficiently.

EXAMPLES

1. AI Chat Bots (e.g. ChatGPT)
2. Calculators
3. Mind Maps
4. Smart Watches
5. Microworld Games
6. GPS Mobile Apps

Cognitive Tools For Learning:

Cognitive Tools for Learning Piet A.M. Kommers, David H. Jonassen, J. Terry Mayes, 2012-12-06 Hypermedia technology needs a creative approach from the outset in the design of software to facilitate human thinking and learning This book opens a discussion of the potential of hypermedia and related approaches to provide open exploratory learning environments The papers in the book are based on contributions to a NATO Advanced Research Workshop held in July 1990 and are grouped into six sections Semantic networking as cognitive tools Expert systems as cognitive tools Hypertext as cognitive tools Collaborative communication tools Microworlds context dependent cognitive tools Implementing cognitive tools The book will be valuable for those who design implement and evaluate learning programs and who seek to escape from rigid tactics like programmed instruction and behavioristic approaches The book presents principles for exploratory systems that go beyond existing metaphors of instruction and provokes the reader to think in a new way about the cognitive level of human computer interaction Cognitive Tools for Learning, 1992 Computers As Cognitive Tools Susanne P. Lajoie, Sharon J. Derry, 2013-05-13 Highlighting and illustrating several important and interesting theoretical trends that have emerged in the continuing development of instructional technology this book's organizational framework is based on the notion of two opposing camps One evolves out of the intelligent tutoring movement which employs artificial intelligence technologies in the service of student modeling and precision diagnosis and the other emerges from a constructivist developmental perspective that promotes exploration and social interaction but tends to reject the methods and goals of the student modelers While the notion of opposing camps tends to create an artificial rift between groups of researchers it represents a conceptual distinction that is inherently more interesting and informative than the relatively meaningless divide often drawn between intelligent and unintelligent instructional systems An evident trend is that researchers in both camps view their computer learning environments as cognitive tools that can enhance learning performance and understanding Cognitive tools are objects provided by the instructional environment that allow students to incorporate new auxiliary methods or symbols into their social problem solving which otherwise would be unavailable A final section of the book represents researchers who are assimilating and accommodating the wisdom and creativity of their neighbors from both camps perhaps forming the look of technology for the future When the idea of model tracing in a computer based environment is combined with appreciation for creative mind extension cognitive tools and for how a community of learners can facilitate learning a camp is created where AI technologists and social constructivist learning theorists can feel equally at home Computers as Metacognitive Tools for Enhancing Learning Roger Azevedo, 2018-12-17 First published in 2005 This Volume 40 No 4 of Autumn 2005 of the Educational Psychologist The articles appearing in this special issue of Educational Psychologist reflect a growing interest by researchers from various fields in examining the use of computers as metacognitive tools for enhancing learning This topic has become increasingly important as computer based learning environments become ubiquitous and students use them extensively both in and out of school to learn about conceptually rich domains
