Big Toe:

Ghosts and Goosebumps Jack Solomon, Olivia Solomon, 1994-03-01 Ghosts and Goosebumps is a rich collection of folktales and superstitions that capture the oral traditions of central and southeastern Alabama. In its pages one can glimpse the long lost horse and buggy times when people sat up all night with the dead and dying, hoed and handpicked cotton, drew water from wells, and met the devil rather regularly. The book is divided into three parts: tales, superstitions, and slave narratives. The spirits of treasure keepers, poltergeists, murderers, and the murdered, wicked men and good men, and true float through the book's first section. Sue Peacock, for example, recalls seeing the ghost of her brother, and E. C. Nevin describes a mysterious light in a swamp. In other tales, reports of supernatural experiences are proved to be rationally explicable. Lee Wilson's devil in the cemetery turns out to be a cow, and chains rattling near New Tabernacle Church in Coffee County belong not to specters but to hogs. The superstitions are arranged according to subject and include such topics as love and marriage, weather, and the seasons, wish making, bad luck signs, and portents. Anonymous tellers confide that it is bad luck to carry ashes out after dark, to let a locust holler in your hand, to rock an empty rocking chair, to let your fishing pole cross someone else's, or to have a two-dollar bill unless one corner has been removed. The slave narratives, selected from the Works Progress Administration Folklore Collection, are substantial and yield a fascinating view of nineteenth-century African American folk life, replete with sillies and lazy men, preachers and witches, brave little boys and reluctant bridegrooms. Although the times and places have changed, the spirit of the folk is unaltered. Taken together, these folktales are marvelously diverse by turns fearsome, fantastical, witty, ribald, charmingly innocent, showing people from all backgrounds their endless vices and occasional virtues, their hopes, fears, and loves.

The Chronic Diseases, Their Specific Nature and Their Homeopathic Treatment Samuel Hahnemann, 1846

On April 14, 1865, John Wilkes Booth assassinated President Abraham Lincoln. By April 26, eight of the ten people eventually charged as accomplices in Lincoln's murder were in custody. Booth was killed resisting capture, and John Surratt was in Canada, his whereabouts unknown to Federal authorities. In the days that followed, President Johnson issued an Executive Order directing that the persons charged with Lincoln's murder stand trial before a military tribunal. During the fifty-day trial, over three hundred and sixty witnesses gave testimony. Benn Pitman, a recognized expert in the art of phonography, an early form of shorthand, was awarded a government contract to produce a true and accurate transcription of the testimony. Working with four assistants, Pitman produced transcripts that served the general public through daily releases to select members of the press, as well as to the prosecution and the defense. Pitman was given the right to publish the transcriptions for public sale, and he skillfully winnowed the 4,300 pages of transcription into a single 421-page volume. Copies of the original 1865 edition, as well as subsequent reprints, are exceedingly rare. Here, for the first time, leading experts in the field lend their insight in a series of commentaries that complement Pitman's published transcript included here in its entirety exposing various perjuries explaining testimony that has escaped scholarly attention and clarifying the events surrounding the assassination as never before
