Mullins, 1987 Urban Village Population, Community and Family Structure in Germantown Pennsylvania 1683-1800 Stephanie Grauman Wolf, 1980-05-21

Most studies of eighteenth century community life in America have focused on New England and in many respects the New England town has become a model for our understanding of communities throughout the United States during this period. In this study of a mid Atlantic town Stephanie Grauman Wolf describes a very different way of organizing society indicating that the New England model may prove atypical. In addition her analysis suggests the origins of twentieth century social patterns in eighteenth century life. Germantown Pennsylvania was chosen for study because it was a small urban center characterized by an ethnically and religiously mixed population of high mobility. The author uses quantitative analysis and sample case study to examine all aspects of the community. She finds that heterogeneity and mobility had a marked effect on urban development on landholding occupation life style and related areas community organization for the control of government and church affairs and the structure and demographic development of the family. Her work represents an important advance not only in our understanding of eighteenth century American society but also in the ways in which we investigate it.

Community Buildings as War Memorials: The architecture of memorial community houses, 1919 Voices of Cosmopolitanism in Early American Writing and Culture Chiara Cillerai, 2017-10-04 This book argues that cosmopolitanism was a feature of early American discourses of nation formation and eighteenth century colonialism With the analysis of writings by Thomas Jefferson Benjamin Franklin Elizabeth Graeme Fergusson Philip Mazzei and Olaudah Equiano the book reassesses the terms in which we understand cosmopolitanism its relationship with local and transatlantic environments and the way these representative writers from different segments of colonial society identified themselves and America within the transatlantic context The book shows that the transnational and universalist appeal of the cosmopolitan not only accompanies empire building and defines a narrative that aligns the cosmopolitan perspective of global understanding and cooperation with western political ideology The language of the cosmopolitan also forms the basis of a rhetoric that resists imperial expansion and allows writers in a variety of cultural social and political margins to find a voice to identify themselves America and the transatlantic world they imagine American Builder, 1929 Community Buildings as War Memorials, 1919 Concepts of Community by Residents of Two Settlements in Kenosha County, Wisconsin Wayne H.
