Henry Donald Maurice Spence-Jones

Early Christian Church:

The Early Christian Church John Gordon Davies, 1965 The development of Christianity from its origins through its first five centuries is a complex story for during this period it grew from a small and obscure sect to become the major religious force within the Roman Empire It was during these early years that the Church established the New Testament and came to agreement on such questions as the Resurrection and the Trinity Creeds liturgies theology the moral and aesthetic fabric of Christian living were all formed in this period The predominant feature of this book is its simplicity of organization After setting forth the context of the Jewish community into which Jesus was born Davies treats each of the five centuries in a separate chapter divided into background sources expansion and development beliefs worship and social life Thus the reader can easily follow any single topic through the whole period or get a reliable view of them all within any one century From publisher description

The Earliest Christian Meeting Places Edward Adams, 2013-10-24 Edward Adams challenges a strong consensus in New Testament and Early Christian studies that the early Christians met almost exclusively in houses This assumption has been foundational for research on the social formation of the early churches the origins and early development of church architecture and early Christian worship Recent years have witnessed increased scholarly interest in the early house church Adams re-examines the New Testament and other literary data as well as archaeological and comparative evidence showing that explicit evidence for assembling in houses is not nearly as extensive as is usually thought He also shows that there is literary and archaeological evidence for meeting in non-house settings Adams makes the case that during the first two centuries the alleged period of the house church it is plausible to imagine the early Christians gathering in a range of venues rather than almost entirely in private houses His thesis has wide ranging implications

Early Christian Traditions Rebecca Lyman,1999-01-25 In this sixth volume of The New Church's Teaching Series Rebecca Lyman introduces us to the world of the early church Beginning with the Jewish Greek and Roman cultures in which the first followers of Jesus lived and worshiped she traces the growth of the Christian church's theology worship leadership and ethics through its first six centuries ending with Augustine of Hippo Early Christian Traditions offers perceptive insights into the early church's intense conflicts that reveal the often thin line between orthodoxy and heresy between true and false teachers and among the many competing versions of Christianity Lyman describes the early church's family quarrels Gnosticism Donatism Arianism as well as the theological political and linguistic issues that went into the making of the great creeds and established the apostolic tradition

Life and Practice in the Early Church Steve McKinion,2001-08 A collection of primary texts revealing how early Christians practiced their faith Life and Practice in the Early Church brings together a range of primary texts from the church's first five centuries to demonstrate how early Christians practiced their faith Rather than focusing on theology these original documents shed light on how early believers did church addressing such practical questions as how did the church administer baptism How were sermons delivered How did the early church carry out its missions endeavors Early Christian writings reveal a great deal about the tradition as well as the wider culture in which it developed Far from being monolithic the documents which present the voices of the early church fathers in their own words demonstrate variation and diversity regarding how faith was worked out during the patristic period The texts illuminate who was eligible for baptism what was expected of worshippers how the Eucharist was celebrated and how church offices and their functions were organized Contextual introductions explain practices and their development for those with little prior knowledge of Christian history or tradition The pieces included here all in accessible English translation represent such sources as Justin Martyr Tertullian the Cappadocians Cyril of Jerusalem John Chrysostom and Augustine

A History of the Early Christian Church William Scott,1936 The Early Christian Church: The first Christian century Philip Carrington,1957 The Spirit of Early Christian Thought Robert Louis Wilken,2003-01-01 Many of the problems afflicting American education are the result of a critical shortage of qualified teachers in the classrooms The teacher crisis is surprisingly resistant to reforms and is getting worse This analysis of the causes underlying the crisis seeks to offer concrete affordable proposals for effective reform Vivian Troen and Katherine Boles two experienced classroom teachers and education consultants argue that because teachers are recruited from a pool of underqualified candidates given inadequate preparation and dropped into a culture of isolation without mentoring support or incentives for excellence they are programmed to fail Half quit within their first five years Troen and Boles offer an alternative a model of reform they call the Millennium School which changes the way teachers work and improves the quality of their teaching When teaching becomes a real profession they contend more academically able people will be drawn into it colleges will be forced to improve the quality of their education and better prepared teachers will enter the classroom and improve the profession
