The Trial Lawyer's Art Sam Schrager, 2000-05 How do lawyers sway jurors in the heat of a trial Why do the best trial lawyers seem uncannily able to get the verdict they want In answering these questions folklorist Sam Schrager vindicates but with a twist the widespread belief that lawyers are actors who manipulate the truth He shows that attorneys have no choice but to treat the jury trial from beginning to end as an artful performance as story telling combat in which victory most often goes to the man or woman who has superior control of craft Drawn from fieldwork in the Philadelphia courts and at the Smithsonian Institution's American Trial Lawyers program The Trial Lawyer's Art gives a remarkable in depth look at this craft of performance It examines how lawyers exploit a case's dramatic potential how they enact mythically potent themes how they project personal authority and how they use cultural identity their own and their opponents racial gender class and local affiliations all to make themselves and their stories persuasive to a jury Schrager depicts the performance styles of some of the nation's most artful criminal and civil advocates in Philadelphia prosecutor Roger King defender Robert Mozenter and the legendary Cecil B Moore from around the country such litigating stars as Roy Barrera Penny Cooper Jo Ann Harris Tony Serra and Michael Tigar These lawyers reflect candidly on their courtroom calculations and share revealing war stories about their work Integrating performance insights with evocative portrayals of unfolding trials The Trial Lawyer's Art offers a no holds barred analysis of the place of skill versus evidence in the American justice system In doing so it raises vital questions about the moral challenges that legal and other professions now face and sheds new light on the role of stories in American life
