Architecture Of Migration:

Architecture of Migration Anooradha Iyer Siddiqi, 2023 Environments associated with migration are often seen as provisional lacking history or architecture As Anooradha Iyer Siddiqi demonstrates in Architecture of Migration a refugee camp s aesthetic and material landscapes even if born out of emergency reveal histories futures politics and rhetorics She identifies forces of colonial and humanitarian settlement tracing spatial and racial politics in the Dadaab refugee camps established in 1991 on the Kenya Somalia border at once a dense setting that manifests decades of architectural planning and design initiatives and a much older constructed environment that reflects its own ways of knowing She moves beyond ahistorical representations of camps and their inhabitants by constructing a material and visual archive of Dadaab finding long migratory traditions in the architecture spatial practices landscapes and iconography of refugees and humanitarians Countering conceptualizations of refugee camps as sites of border transgression criminality and placelessness Siddiqi instead theorizes them as complex settlements ecologies and material archives created through histories of partitions sedentarizations domesticities and migrations

Migrant Housing the latest book by author Mirjana Lozanovska examines the house as the architectural construct in the processes of migration Housing is pivotal to any migration story with studies showing that migrant participation in the adaptation or building of houses provides symbolic materiality of belonging and the platform for agency and productivity in the broader context of the immigrant city Migration also disrupts the cohesion of everyday dwelling and homeland integral to housing and the book examines this displacement of dwelling and its effect on migrant housing This timely volume investigates the poetic and political resonance between migration and architecture challenging the idea of the house as a singular theoretical construct Divided into three parts Histories and theories of post war migrant housing House home and Mapping migrant spaces of home it draws on data studies from Australia and Macedonia with literature from Canada Sweden and Germany to uncover the effects of unprivileged post war migration in the late twentieth century on the house as architectural and normative model and from this perspective negotiates the disciplinary boundaries of architecture

Log Construction in the Ohio Country, 1750-1850 Donald A. Hutslar,1992 Log construction entered the Ohio territory with the seventeenth century fur traders and mid eighteenth century squatters and then spread throughout most of the area after the opening of the territory in the 1780s Scottish Irish and German settlers using techniques from the eastern states and European homelands found the abundant timber resources of the Ohio country ideally suited to this simple durable form of construction Hutslar documents this early architecture with extensive descriptive materials from local histories diaries traveller s accounts building contracts and many recent site photographs These descriptions will be interesting for modern craftsmen and other builders involved in historic restoration or log construction generally Hutslar s extensive fieldwork is valuable to students of vernacular architecture and preservationists and this abridged paperback edition of his book is a boon to travelling or local history buffs who can refer to this wealth of information at their leisure
