Chest Pain of Recent Onset, 2010 Chest pain or discomfort caused by acute coronary syndromes ACS or angina has a potentially poor prognosis emphasising the importance of prompt and accurate diagnosis Treatments are available to improve symptoms and prolong life hence the need for this guideline This guideline covers the assessment and diagnosis of people with recent onset chest pain or discomfort of suspected cardiac origin In deciding whether chest pain may be cardiac and therefore whether this guideline is relevant a number of factors should be taken into account These include the person's history of chest pain their cardiovascular risk factors history of ischaemic heart disease and any previous treatment and previous investigations for chest pain For pain that is suspected to be cardiac there are two separate diagnostic pathways presented in the guideline The first is for people with acute chest pain in whom ACS is suspected and the second is for people with intermittent stable chest pain in whom stable angina is suspected The guideline includes how to determine whether myocardial ischaemia is the cause of the chest pain and how to manage the chest pain while people are being assessed and investigated The diagnosis and management of chest pain that is clearly unrelated to the heart e.g. traumatic chest wall injury herpes zoster infection is not considered once myocardial ischaemia has been excluded The guideline makes no assumptions about who the patient consults where that consultation takes place primary care secondary care emergency department or what diagnostic facilities might be available It recognizes that while atherosclerotic CAD is the usual cause of angina and ACS it is not a necessary requirement for either diagnosis Similarly it recognises that in patients with a prior diagnosis of

CAD chest pain or discomfort is not necessarily cardiac in origin Emergency Nursing Care Gary Jones, Ruth Endacott, Robert Crouch, 2002-11 The field of accident and emergency nursing is a fast moving one This comprehensive textbook is aimed at both the qualified or trainee nurse who has specialised or is thinking of specialising in accident and emergency care The authors and editors are all experienced nurses and nurse educators who aim to provide easy to read and easy to find information about procedures conditions and nursing skills that a newcomer to the field may not be familiar with or with which he or she has only a superficial knowledge Throughout the text much use is made of illustrations tables and boxes of key information and a comprehensive list of references is included at the end of each chapter Assessment, 2005 This unique 2 in 1 reference presents vital information on history taking physical examination and interpretation of findings in two practical helpful ways on every page The wide inner column contains detailed narrative text the narrow outer column contains brief bulleted summaries of the same information This format enables nurses to quickly scan the bulleted points and jump to more detail as needed without turning the page In addition to full assessment guidance for every body system this essential reference covers mental health assessment and nutritional assessment Two 8 page full color inserts bring to life assessment techniques and landmarks Icons highlight specific techniques lifespan gender and racial differences in findings and abnormal findings Assessing & Managing Common Signs & Symptoms Lisa L. Lommel, 1997 Clinical Assessment in Respiratory Care Robert L. Wilkins, Susan Jones Krider, Richard L. Sheldon, 2000 Thoroughly revised and updated CLINICAL ASSESSMENT IN RESPIRATORY CARE teaches assessment techniques from the most basic skills for the student learning the process of patient care to the more advanced skills for the student or practitioner involved with patients in the intensive care unit An entirely new section will teach students and practitioners the skills necessary to record patient cases The Instructor s Manual Test Bank allows instructors to customize their approach to assessment and includes a ready made selection of test questions Emergency Medicine PreTest Self-Assessment and Review, Second Edition Adam J. Instructor's Manual to Health Assessment in Nursing

Mandava, Morton, 1992 Cardiovascular Care Handbook, 1986 Practical Joint Assessment Anne Hartley, 1990

Nursing Times, Nursing Mirror, 2004 Critical Care Nursing Patricia Gonce Morton, 1998 This book is organized into five parts the first two of which cover areas applicable to all critical care patients including the patient's and family's experience education pain management ethical and legal issues and the rewards and challenges of critical care nursing The third part addresses specific populations including pediatric patients pregnant women older adults and postanesthesia patients as well as interfacility transport The balance of the book is arranged by body systems and concludes with multisystem problems This is the seventh edition of a text first published in 1973 and last published in 1994 The purpose is to present current comprehensive and practical information built on a holistic perspective of care in which the patient is the core of nursing practice This book meets a need for educating students and nurses in the critical care environment The editors' objective of providing a framework for focusing on patient responses in the critical care environment is met This book is intended for students in critical care educators and clinicians This edition is also tailored to meet the needs of patients The editors are excellent authorities in critical care nursing All three are practitioners and one is both practitioner and educator The contributors and reviewers are critical care experts The illustrations are used best to understand critical care technology The graphics used for anatomy physiology and patient assessment add to the usefulness of the text The references are pertinent and current but certain specialty content would need to be updated by the reader e g medication protocols for CHF The use of color in the text is managed carefully to guide and not overpower the reader The 1997 ACLS Guidelines are in Appendix 1 The Answer Key to Study Questions appears in Appendix 2 Anatomy and physiology patient assessment and clinical management nursing research collaborative plans of care teaching and home care issues are some of the innovations presented One strength of book is how it addresses the changes associated with aging and the needs of the older adult Aging concerns are covered in one chapter and are highlighted throughout the text This edition provides current information that makes the previous edition out of date I would recommend this text for beginning critical care nurses and for undergraduate nursing students for its coverage of advanced pathophysiological concepts

Anderson V. Bowen, 1988 California. Court of Appeal (2nd Appellate District). Records and Briefs California (State)., Number of Exhibits 14 Priorities in Critical Care Nursing Linda Diann Urden, Kathleen M. Stacy, 1996 This book gives a thorough overview of the pathophysiological and psychological alterations frequently encountered in critical care patients Emphasis is on clinical and nursing priorities nursing diagnoses and state of the art therapeutic management The user friendly format provides a variety of learning tools and enhancements for the reader

Instant Nursing Assessment Theresa M. O'Neill Korolishin, 1996 Instant assessment techniques to provide nurses with immediate relevant clinical information on the most important aspects of patient assessment for the neurological system

Adopting the Track of Term: An Mental Symphony within Assessing Chest Pain

In some sort of taken by screens and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous conversation, the melodic splendor and mental symphony produced by the published term often disappear in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the relentless sound and disruptions that permeate our lives. However, set within the pages of Assessing Chest Pain a marvelous literary value overflowing with fresh thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced.
