Biological Defence Mechanisms:

Low Dose Irradiation and Biological Defense Mechanisms Tsutomu Sugahara, Leonard A. Sagan, Takashi Aoyama, 1992

The above mentioned conference was held with a view to examining perspectives on the biological effects of low dose radiation in conjunction with biological defense mechanisms and their implications for human health and risk assessment. Recent studies indicate low dose radiation may produce stimulating effects or adaptive responses and therefore might not be harmful as previously believed. Key note lectures and overviews provide a comprehensive review of the issues with many new significant findings paving the way for deeper insights into mechanisms underlying contradictory scientific observations. This is the first book presenting the current status of research on laboratory and epidemiological phenomena following low dose irradiation.

From Biology to Hardware Kiyoshi Tanaka, Masaya Iwata, Tetsuya Higuchi, Moritoshi Yasunaga, 2003-06-30. On behalf of the ICES 2001 Conference Committee it is our pleasure to present to you the proceedings of the fourth International Conference on Evolvable Systems From Biology to Hardware. ICES 2001 held in Tokyo Japan on 3-5 October 2001 addressing the latest developments and discussing challenges facing the field of evolvable systems. The idea of evolving machines whose origins can be traced back to the cybernetics movement of the 1940s and the 1950s has recently re-emerged in the form of the nascent field of bio-inspired systems and evolvable hardware. Following the workshop Towards Evolvable Hardware which took place in Lausanne Switzerland in October 1995 the First International Conference on Evolvable Systems From Biology to Hardware ICES96 was held at the Electrotechnical Laboratory MITI Tsukuba Japan in October 1996. The second and the third International Conferences on Evolvable Systems From Biology to Hardware ICES98 and ICES 2000 were respectively held in Lausanne in September 1998 and in Edinburgh in April 2000. Following the success of these past events ICES 2001 was dedicated to the promotion and advancement of all aspects of evolvable systems including hardware software algorithms and applications. By bringing together researchers who use biologically inspired concepts to implement real systems in artificial intelligence artificial life robotics VLSI design and related domains ICES 2001 reunited this burgeoning community.

Molecular Biology in Crop Protection G. Marshall, 2012-12-06. Few individuals can be unmoved by the impact of molecular biology. Advances in the discipline over four decades have progressed at a rate unrivalled in other scientific areas. In its formative years molecular biology examined the chemical and physical structures of biological molecules subsequently elucidated the nature and function of DNA and evolved into molecular genetics. From this exponential growth of scientific knowledge tremendous opportunities were created for the application of molecular approaches to solve problems in applied biology. This book describes the new productive association between novel state of the art molecular biology and crop protection a discipline with a sound heritage in traditional applied biology and chemistry. Never before has crop protection faced such diverse challenges. It is charged with improving global food supplies and with the pressure of population increases.

of one billion in the next decade But to consider protection of crops simply in terms of weed pest and disease control would be a gross oversimplification of the mission Rather crop protectionists must develop measures which will maintain crop yield and quality without harm to the environment Chemical cultural and biological approaches to crop protection must also fulfil evolving legislative demands and address the issues which confer public acceptability Biology and Integrated Management of Turfgrass Diseases Gary W.
