TU Bergakademie Freiberg Germany Wilfrid S Kendall University of Warwick UK Joseph Mecke Friedrich Schiller Universitat Jena Germany This standard text makes the results and methods of stochastic geometry and spatial statistics accessible to practitioners and non theoreticians The book is also ideal as an introduction to the subject for mathematicians The exposition is mathematically precise and takes into account the latest results but in many cases proofs are omitted Topics covered include the basic theories of point processes random sets fibre and surface processes random tessellations stereology and the statistical theory of shape The theory is illustrated by many examples drawn from different branches of science actual data in the form of images are presented and their statistical analysis is discussed As well as being of great interest to statisticians this treatment of the subject has proved useful to applied scientists working in fields such as geology biology microscopy and materials science and to pure mathematicians working in geometry 1995 Bayesian Analysis in Statistics and Econometrics

Educational Assessment in the 21st Century Claire Wyatt-Smith, Joy

Cumming, 2009-08-05 Signs of Change Assessment Past Present and Future Another Time Another Place Examinations Then and Now In the Temple of Literature in Hanoi Vietnam a series of stone stelae records the names of the handful of illustrious examination candidates who in each century passed the national examination to become a Doctor of Literature Beginning in the 11th century the exams were conducted personally by successive kings who pursued Confucian ideals that found expression in the enormous value placed on the pursuit of wisdom and learning In the 21st century we are both puzzled and impressed by this tradition Puzzled by such an explicit commitment to a meritocracy in an essentially feudal society impressed by this enthusiasm for learning and the pursuit of wisdom at the highest level of society Yet there are also important similarities between the 11th and 21st centuries Then as now assessment was associated with excellence high standards pr tige and competition success for the chosen few disappointment for the majority Then as now the pursuit of excellence was embedded in a social context that favoured the elite and determined success in terms of the predilections of the powerful. Then as now the purpose of the assessment, the way it was conducted and its impact on society all reflected the social and economic priorities of the day.

International Handbook of Educational Evaluation T. Kellaghan, D.L. Stufflebeam, 2012-12-06 Thomas Kellaghan Educational Research Centre St Patrick's College Dublin Ireland Daniel L Stufflebeam The Evaluation Center Western Michigan University MI USA Lori A Wingate The Evaluation Center Western Michigan University MI USA

Educational evaluation encompasses a wide array of activities including student assessment, measurement, testing, program evaluation, school personnel evaluation, school accreditation and curriculum evaluation. It occurs at all levels of education systems from the individual student evaluations carried out by classroom teachers to evaluations of schools and districts to district-wide program evaluations to national assessments to cross-national comparisons of student achievement. As in any area of scholarship and practice, the field is constantly evolving as a result of advances in theory, methodology and technology, increasing globalization, emerging needs and pressures and cross-fertilization from other disciplines. The beginning of a new century would seem an appropriate time to provide a portrait of the current state of the theory and practice of educational evaluation across the globe. It is the purpose of this handbook to attempt to do this, to sketch the international landscape of educational evaluation, its conceptualizations, practice, methodology and background and the functions it serves. The book's 43 chapters, grouped in 10 sections, provide detailed accounts of major components of the educational evaluation enterprise. Together they provide a panoramic view of an evolving field.

Construction and Assessment of Classification Rules David J. Hand, 1997 Construction and Assessment of Classification Rules is an accessible book presenting the central issues and placing particular emphasis on comparison, performance assessment and how to match method to application. Some unusual allocation problems are outlined and a detailed discussion of performance assessment is included. The methods used for different application domains such as parametric, method smoothing methods and recursive partitioning are described. The author reviews different approaches and guides researchers and users to suitable classes of techniques.

Competency in Home Care Terasa Astarita, Gayle Materna, Cynthia Blevins, 1998 This professional resource describes in detail how to establish a competency-based staff development programme for all members of the home health care team: RNs and LPNs as well as aides, support staff and therapists. The authors address competency in relation to the specialty of home health care and its unique environmental and regulatory requirements.

A History of Mathematical Statistics from 1750 to 1930 Anders Hald, 1998-04-22 The long-awaited second volume of Anders Hald's history of the development of mathematical statistics. Anders Hald's A History of Probability and Statistics and Their Applications before 1750 is already considered a classic by many mathematicians and historians. This new volume picks up where its predecessor left off, describing the contemporaneous development and interaction of four topics: direct probability theory and sampling distributions, inverse probability by Bayes and Laplace, the method of least squares and the central limit theorem and selected topics in estimation.

theory after 1830 In this rich and detailed work Hald carefully traces the history of parametric statistical inference the development of the corresponding mathematical methods and some typical applications Not surprisingly the ideas concepts methods and results of Laplace Gauss and Fisher dominate his account In particular Hald analyzes the work and interactions of Laplace and Gauss and describes their contributions to modern theory Hald also offers a great deal of new material on the history of the period and enhances our understanding of both the controversies and continuities that developed between the different schools To enable readers to compare the contributions of various historical figures Professor Hald has rewritten the original papers in a uniform modern terminology and notation while leaving the ideas unchanged Statisticians probabilists actuaries mathematicians historians of science and advanced students will find absorbing reading in the author's insightful description of important problems and how they gradually moved toward solution Statistical Process Adjustment for Quality Control Enrique del Castillo, 2002-04-04 Quality control is a major concern and the best method for ensuring proper quality is to establish process adjustments This text presents statistical methods for process adjustment and their relation to the classical methods of process monitoring Generalized, Linear, and Mixed Models Charles E. McCulloch, Shayle R. Searle, 2001 Generalised linear models are the primary tools of statistical analysis and form the underpinning of generalised linear models This work offers detailed and unified coverage of the dichotomy of linear and generalised linear models with fixed and mixed effects Nonresponse in Household Interview Surveys Robert M. Groves, Mick P. Couper, 1998-04-28 Examines the statistical and practical aspects of non response in sample surveys and the features of the survey design that might affect the participation rates Flowgraph Models for Multistate Time-to-Event Data Aparna V. Huzurbazar, 2005 Publisher Description Optimization Heuristics in Econometrics Peter Winker, 2001 Many problems in statistics and econometrics offer themselves naturally to the use of optimization heuristics Standard methods applied to highly complex problems often produce approximate results of unknown quality based on heavy assumptions Optimization heuristic methods provide powerful results to many complex problems combined with relatively simple implementation The techniques used in optimization heuristics can be applied to problems encountered in econometrics statistics and operations research Offers a self contained introduction to optimization heuristics in econometrics and statistics Features many examples of optimization heuristic methods applied to real problems Includes detailed coverage of the threshold accepting heuristic methods applied to real problems Provides suggestions for further reading Split into three parts the book opens with a general introduction to optimization in statistics and econometrics followed by detailed discussion of a relatively new and very powerful optimization heuristic threshold accepting The final part consists of many applications of the methods described earlier encompassing experimental design model selection aggregation of time series and censored quantile regression models Those researching and working in econometrics statistics and operations research are given the tools to apply optimization heuristic methods to real problems in their work

Postgraduate students of statistics and econometrics will find the book provides a good introduction to optimization heuristic methods
