- Its function is to provide quantitative information, primarily financial in nature, about economic entities that is intended to be useful in making economic decisions.

B. Accounting is the language of business and is called this because all organizations set up an accounting information system to communicate data to help people make better decisions.

C. Accounting is a system that identifies records and communicates relevant, reliable, and comparable information about an organization's business activities.

- Identifying means selecting transactions and events relevant to an organization.

- Recording means keeping a chronological log of transactions and events measured in currency and classified and summarized in a useful format.

- Communicating means preparing accounting reports such as financial statements, and analyzing and interpreting these reports.

D. Accounting is a process of identifying, measuring and communicating economic information to permit informed judgments and decisions by users of the information.
