Clark Gable in the 1930s James L. Neibaur, 2021-04-09 The 1930s represented the strongest and most significant decade in Clark Gable's career. Later known as The King of Hollywood, Gable started out as a journeyman actor who quickly rose to the level of star and then icon. With his ruggedly attractive looks and effortless charisma, Gable was the sort of manly romantic lead that bolstered features alongside the likes of Jean Harlow, Joan Crawford, and Spencer Tracy. The decade culminated with Gable's most noted movie, Gone With the Wind. This book traces Gable's early career, film by film, offering background information and a critical assessment of each of his movies released during the 1930s. Movie Stars Do the Dumbest Things Margaret Moser, Michael Bertin, Bill Crawford, 1999-10-29

Johnny Depp, Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando, Leonardo DiCaprio, Woody Allen, Sharon Stone. What do all of these actors have in common? They're outrageous, receive huge salaries, have enormous egos, and have way too much spare time. Their out-of-control lifestyles prove that, as one Hollywood observer noted, Hollywood is a trip through a sewer in a glass-bottomed boat. You'll learn which director was furious when he was misquoted as saying "Actors are cattle." He claimed he had really said "Actors should be treated as cattle." You'll discover that Bruce Willis ordered the final scenes in Striking Distance to be re-shot at a cost of over 750,000 because the original shots exposed his toupee. You'll find that Melanie Griffith explained her ignorance of the Nazi Holocaust by saying "I don't know why I didn't know. Maybe I missed school that day. I'm not stupid." Whether you're a fan of Hugh Grant, Dennis Hopper, or Whoopi Goldberg, you'll learn about all of the embarrassing moments in your favorite star's life. From actors like Ben Affleck and Cameron Diaz to screen legends like Frank Sinatra and Judy Garland, Movie Stars Do the Dumbest Things is proof that actors are more childish and impulsive than you've ever imagined.

Includes pictures of important people, places, and events. Includes Gable's quotes about his own life and working with other Hollywood stars. Includes a bibliography for further reading. "The only reason they come to see me is that I know that life is great and they know I know it." Clark Gable. The 1930s were, without a doubt, the height of the classical Hollywood era. It is no accident that 1939 has historically been designated as the pinnacle of Hollywood film history. The era was known for its lavish studio productions with MGM, RKO, Warner Brothers, Paramount, and 20th Century Fox all operating at the height of their powers. Every major studio possessed a long roster of contract players with films released at such a rapid pace that it made for an especially competitive environment within the industry. Even while America remained in the throes of the Great Depression, the film industry continued to flourish, and movies easily supplanted the theater as the main attraction for American entertainment. Indeed, it would be no exaggeration to claim that the film industry reached its zenith during the decade precisely because it offered an affordable, if very temporary, escape from the anxieties of the economic woes of the era. The 1930s were also a time in which Hollywood boasted an unprecedented array of famous leading men. Gary Cooper, Cary Grant, James Stewart, and Fred Astaire were just a handful of the A-list stars of the decade, and it is in this context that the achievements of Clark Gable are particularly remarkable. Best known for his role in Gone with the Wind, 1939, Gable reached the ranks of the Hollywood elite.

well before the end of the decade through acting in films such as It Happened One Night 1934 and Mutiny on the Bounty 1935 Gable had a unique appeal that captivated Depression era audiences while Cary Grant offered a sophisticated charm and Fred Astaire was tied to the musical genre Gable brought an air of sophistication that was less comical than that of Grant and appealed to both genders unlike Astaire At a time when so many Americans were financially destitute Gable managed to appear classy without coming across as snobbish At the same time his virile masculinity was not overly macho or misogynist For these reasons Gable was able to captivate male and female viewers alike and his mass appeal was a driving force behind the commercial success of Gone With the Wind possibly the most beloved Hollywood film ever made As iconic director John Huston once stated Clark Gable was the only real he man I ve ever known of all the actors I ve met Even if Gable is perhaps less widely known than Grant or Astaire among 21st century audiences examining the effect he had on viewers during the 1930s and 1940s allows a better understanding of Hollywood during its Golden Age In conjunction with that his career served as a sort of response to his upbringing and cultural background In fact there was a significant gap between his glamorous roles on the movie screen and the real life adversity he faced from an early age Gable faced great challenges throughout his entire career from the death of his biological mother to the death of wife Carol Lombard in 1942 As with any famous actor he was the recipient of great fortune yet it is important to recognize that his many opportunities did not preclude him from experiencing great pain and tragedy American Legends The Life of Clark Gable examines the life and career of one of Hollywood s most iconic leading men Along with pictures of important people places and events you will learn about Clark Gable like never before in no time at all Clark Gable René Jordan,1974 Clark Gable Marie Cahill,1992-11-01 Clark Gable George Carpozi (Jr),1961
