Classroom Power Relations:

Classroom Power Relations Mary Manke,1997-08-01 This book is based on a careful theorizing of classroom power relations that sees them as constructed from the actions of all participants Contrary to the common assumption that the teacher is the source of classroom power it sees that power as arising from the interaction between students and teachers If power is owned by the teacher she is completely responsible for events in the classroom whether or not she chooses to share her power control authority with the students If as this book claims power is the joint creation of all participants teachers are freed from an excessive and damaging weight of responsibility for classroom events and outcomes The shared responsibility between students and teachers for what happens in the classroom is brought to light Based on an ethnographic study of three elementary classrooms this book offers a careful look at the workings of classroom power It is of interest both to those seeking to understand power relations from this theoretical viewpoint and to those whose concern is with the daily workings of classrooms often called classroom management Questions explored in this book include How do teachers organize time and space in classrooms as part of their contribution to the development of classroom power relations What kinds of discourse choices do they make and why How do students contribute to defining what will count as classroom knowledge and how do they resist teacher agendas as they play their part in constructing classroom power relations Classroom Power Relations Mary Phillips Manke,1997

Classroom Power Relations Mary Manke,1997-08 This book for preservice and inservice teachers and for teacher educators will help them consider how students and teachers together construct their lives in classrooms The author employs a constructivist view of power relations Teacher-student Power Relations in Primary Schools in Hong Kong Mei-Yee Wong,2014 This book examines from a sociological perspective teacher student power relations in classroom learning and teaching The case study consists of four Hong Kong primary schools and sixteen classrooms therein that were selected as research sites to explore the concept of teacher student power relations Observations individual interviews and document analysis were the main data collection methods employed Wong provides the historical context for the issue of teacher student power relationship by reviewing the traditional Chinese cultures and values in particular the values of respect for authority and for teachers and demonstrates the intermingling of Chinese and Western cultures in contemporary Hong Kong Chinese society She reviews the major educational initiatives carried out in Hong Kong since the 1970s showing how Western educational policies promoting student centric teaching modes have encouraged changes in classroom culture With reference to the observed seventy three lessons the study identified three patterns of teacher student power relations Teacher Domination Relatively Balanced Opportunity for Power Sharing and Student Self Empowerment each involving different degrees of power being exercised by teacher and students The coexistence of these three power patterns and the two corresponding power situations student empowerment and disempowerment can be explained as the result of multileveled intertwined interactions among six factors related to social culture education policy school and classroom contexts and to the individual players concerned The book thus contributes to the understanding of teacher student power relations in the context of Hong Kong by proposing a theoretical framework that reflects local socio cultural educational and school contexts The Power Relationship Between Parents and School Officials Lary Nicanor Duque,1998 Discursive Practices and Power Relations Shirley A. Torres,1995 Power Relationships in the Classroom and how They are Maintained Erma Noel Taylor,C. Ray Williams,1988 Catalog Issue Pratt Institute. School of Science and Technology,1926 Strategies for Dismantling Power Relations Margarita Tavera Rivera,1986 Teacher-Student Power Relations in Primary Schools in Hong Kong Mei-Yee Wong,□□□,2017-01-27 This dissertation Teacher student Power Relations in Primary Schools in Hong Kong by Mei yee Wong was obtained from The University of Hong Kong Pokfulam Hong Kong and is being sold pursuant to Creative Commons Attribution 3 0 Hong Kong License The content of this dissertation has not been altered in any way We have altered the formatting in order to facilitate the ease of printing and reading of the dissertation All rights not granted by the above license are retained by the author Abstract This qualitative case study explores power relations between teacher and students in a classroom based teaching and learning process Sixteen Grade Four and Five classes in four Hong Kong primary schools were studied to determine how teachers and students experience and exercise power in classrooms in the context of Hong Kong and how that power is expressed in such varied combinations Observations individual interviews and document analysis were the main data collection methods employed The study identifies three major patterns in teacher student power relations in 73 observed classroom lessons Pattern I Teacher Domination Pattern II Equal Opportunity for Power Sharing and Pattern III Student Self Empowerment Pattern I classrooms demonstrated student disempowerment while Pattern II and III classrooms were characterised by teacher initiated and student initiated student empowerment respectively The study finds that in each power pattern teachers and students play a variety of classroom roles teachers as rule and textbook enforcer learning facilitator and learning assistant students as rule and learning follower learning partner and master of learning and adopt different power strategies manipulation giving power and standing back among teachers compliance cooperation and self governance among students The study also identifies six players forces facilitating factors shaping teacher student power distribution a the cultural value of respect for authority and for teachers b the Curriculum Reform initiative and the promotion of student centric teaching modes c school policies and cultures d subject nature and curriculum contents e teachers and f students Based on its findings the study suggests viewing teacher student power relations in the context of Hong Kong as a reflection of multileveled intertwined interactions This interpretation implies that teacher student classroom interactions are affected by various factors in a wider context rather than mutual effects between teacher and students alone each factor involved in a multileveled context classrooms schools education system and Hong Kong society shapes teacher student power relations The coexistence of the three identified power patterns and the related empowering and disempowering situations is the result of the individual and collective effects of the six facilitating factors This empirical study supplements the understanding of teacher student power relations in the context of Hong Kong by proposing a theoretical framework that relates to the local socio cultural educational and school contexts The study suggests the need for further explorations of teacher student power relations at other school levels in Hong Kong and in other cities in mainland China or elsewhere Additional potential directions for future research include an exploration of the development of student empowerment inside and outside of the classroom in a purposive case school and an exploration of teacher student power relations in specific subjects DOI 10 5353 th_b4730893 Subjects Teacher student relationships China Hong Kong
