Dark Tourism:

The Dark Tourist Dom Joly, 2021-09-02 Ever since he can remember Dom Joly has been fascinated by travel to odd places In part this stems from a childhood spent in war torn Lebanon where instead of swapping marbles in the schoolyard he had a shrapnel collection the schoolboy currency of Beirut Dom s upbringing was interspersed with terrifying days and nights spent hunkered in the family basement under Syrian rocket attack or coming across a pile of severed heads from a sectarian execution in the pine forests near his home These early experiences left Dom with a profound loathing for the sanitized experiences of the modern day travel industry and a taste for the darkest of places In this brilliantly odd and hilariously told travel memoir Dom Joly sets out on a quest to visit those destinations from which the average tourist would and should run a mile The more insalubrious the place the more interesting is the journey and so we follow Dom as he skis in Iran on segregated slopes spends a weekend in Chernobyl tours the assassination sites of America and becomes one of the few Westerners to be granted entry into North Korea Eventually Dom journeys back to his roots in Beirut only to discover he was at school with Osama Bin Laden Funny and frightening in equal measure this is a uniquely bizarre and compelling travelogue from one of the most fearless and innovative comedians around

Gazing at Death Maximiliano Korstanje, Bintang Handayani, 2017 An ever increasing number of tourists annually visit places which have been hit by disasters or remembering onslaughts genocides or places of mass death The Apollonian sense of beauty which characterised the classic forms of tourism some time ago sets the pace to new forms of gazing where death plays a vital role Though under the name of dark thana or morbid tourism this new phenomenon is captivating the attention of scholars worldwide and little research has advanced to explain the roots of this much deep seated issue The fact is that dark tourism oscillates from the visit to former concentration camps to abandoned prisons which shows that what visitors want is to be closer to another individuals suffering This point has spurred a heated debate over recent years since while some groups of researchers see in dark tourism a sign of new sadism another wave situates this as an anthropological attempt to understand the proper life through the lens of others tragedy Whatever the case may be this book intends to discuss not only the causes and effects of dark tourism in a secularised society but also gives an all encompassing model to policy makers researchers students and scholars to expand their current understanding While orchestrated through different chapters the main argument holds the thesis that dark tourism represents a mechanism in order for society to discipline death in a moment where the process of secularisation has advanced to all spheres of public life

Lill,2017-11-07 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2017 im Fachbereich Kulturwissenschaften Holocaust Studien Note 1 3
Katholische Universität Eichstätt Ingolstadt Sprache Deutsch Abstract The paper discusses the cultural phenomenon of taking selfies as an act of recent tourist performance in the light of dark tourism The aim is neither to focus on the purpose of dark tourism nor the purpose of this behaviour but to examine how it is influencing the role and meaning of highly sensible places in this case the Holocaust memorials The analysis will be based on the following research question How do modern forms of tourism performance influence the role of dark tourism sites What do Pompeii Ground Zero Chernobyl the Costa Concordia shipwreck or Auschwitz memorial have in common They are all part of an ever growing phenomenon in the contemporary society the so called dark tourism This kind of tourism which involves travelling to sites of former death or horror is not new but increasingly getting popular Another current tourism trend is the search for personal involvement through self presentation in other words taking a selfie The Oxford Dictionary 2013 defines selfie as a photograph that one has taken of oneself typically one taken with a smartphone or webcam and uploaded to a social media website But how do both trends interrelate As the selfie behaviour can be observed at all types of tourism destinations it doesn't stop at places of former death and suffering The project Yoloocaust of the satirist Shahak Shapira deals with this behaviour at the Holocaust memorial in Berlin By transforming the selfies that some guests uploaded on popular social media channels the campaign presents in a direct and unadulterated way how the social media use in a rapidly changing communication environment is influencing the behaviour of modern tourists

Dark Tourism Tony Seaton,2023-09 Dark tourism also known as grief or thanatourism is a form of tourism that involves visiting places associated with death tragedy and suffering These destinations hold historical significance due to past human atrocities natural disasters war or infamous crime scenes Dark tourism sites can include concentration camps battlefields disaster zones genocide memorials and sites of terrorist attacks The allure of dark tourism lies in the morbid curiosity and fascination with the macabre drawing visitors who seek to confront the darker aspects of human history While some engage in these visits for educational purposes and to pay respects to the victims others may be driven by thrill seeking motives or the desire for sensational experiences The phenomenon raises ethical considerations as the balance between respectful remembrance and exploitation becomes critical in preserving the dignity of those who suffered while fostering empathy and understanding among visitors
