review of basic tenets of the current understanding of CLT including major components of human cognitive architecture their characteristics and effects on cognitive load It summarizes the modifications that have been made to CLT to date including redefining types of cognitive load and applying an evolutionary approach The criticisms of the theory that have been expressed over the years are reviewed and possible modifications to CLT that could enhance its usability are explored The book considers existing instructional theories e g problem first productive failure or invention learning as evidence for the goal driven approach and offers examples of specific learning tasks and related motivational and affective goals of learner activities to illustrate the goal driven approach to CLT using simulation and game based learning environments Finally the book provides theoretical and practical implications of the proposed new approach This reframing of CLT is expected to result in a more learner centered framework in accordance with recent trends in instructional science and educational technology
