Media Review Digest C. Edward Wall, 2006      Journalism, Digital Media and the Fourth Industrial Revolution

José Sixto-García, Alberto Quián, Ana-Isabel Rodríguez-Vázquez, Alba Silva-Rodríguez, Xosé Soengas-Pérez, 2024-09-03 The Fourth Industrial Revolution also known as Industry 4.0 is the fourth most important industrial stage that has occurred since the beginning of the Industrial Revolution in the 18th century. This new revolution is characterized by combining cutting edge production techniques with intelligent systems that integrate with organizations and people. Communication and journalism especially digital media face the challenge of integrating emerging technologies and practices or in test or developing technologies into companies and communicative products that are breaking down the boundaries between physical digital and biological. This collection analyzes and reflects on the impact of Industry 4.0 on journalism and digital media. The collection is split into three parts. The first part analyzes the emergence of centralized and decentralized networks and their impact on digital media. Specifically it delves into the role of cryptographic journalism and the impact of free and collaborative networks in the fediverse to fight against disinformation and censorship as well as to promote data and metadata journalism. In a second part the innovation of innovation is explored with the aim of continuing to create products that satisfy the needs of 4.0 audiences. This is where the challenges and opportunities offered by the metaverse content automation technologies the impact of the Internet of Things on journalism labs the application of R D I to journalism and collaborative encounters between journalists to develop highly innovative proposals are explored. Finally in the third part of the book the emergence of new communicative and journalistic actors in the 4.0 context is reviewed. Examples include start ups spin offs or other entrepreneurial initiatives communication of knowledge transfer new financing models and outsourcing of tasks new proposals for newsgames or the impact of artificial intelligence in journalism practices. In addition a final chapter is dedicated to exploring the new professional skills needed for journalists in this Fourth Industrial Revolution.

Systems Engineering, Systems Thinking, and Learning Hubert Anton Moser, 2013-12-05 This book focuses on systems engineering systems thinking and how that thinking can be learned in practice. It describes a novel analytical framework based on activity theory for understanding how systems thinking evolves and how it can be improved to support multidisciplinary teamwork in the context of system development and systems engineering. This method developed using data collected over four years from three different small space systems engineering organizations can be applied in a wide variety of work activities in the context of engineering design and beyond in order to monitor and analyze multidisciplinary interactions in working teams over time. In addition the book presents a practical strategy called WAVES Work Activity for a Evolution of Systems engineering and thinking which fosters the practical learning of systems thinking with the aim of improving process development in different industries. The book offers an excellent resource for researchers and practitioners interested in systems thinking and in solutions to support its evolution. Beyond its contribution to a better understanding of systems
