Imperial Science Bruce J. Hunt, 2021-01-07 Explores how Britain's global cable network became both the nervous system of its Empire and the key to electrical physics Submarine Cables Douglas R. Burnett, Robert Beckman, Tara M. Davenport, 2013-10-24 Submarine fiber optic cables are critical communications infrastructure for States around the world They are laid on the seabed are often no bigger than a garden hose and transmit immense amounts of data across oceans These cables are the backbone of the internet and phone services and underpin core State interests such as the finance sector shipping commerce and banking industries Without the capacity to transmit and receive data via submarine cables the economic security of States would be severely compromised Despite the fact that 95 per cent of all data and telecommunications between States are transmitted via submarine cables there is little understanding of how these cables operate As a result some States have developed policies and laws that undermine the integrity of international telecommunications systems Submarine Cables The Handbook of Law and Policy provides a one stop shop of essential information relating to the international governance of submarine cables The Handbook is a unique collaboration between international lawyers and experts from the submarine cable industry It provides a practical insight into the law and policy issues that affect the protection of submarine cables as well as the laying maintenance and operation of such cables In addition the law and policy issues in relation to other special purpose cables such as power cables marine scientific research cables military cables and offshore energy cables are also addressed Patagonia Wild and Free William H. Greenwood, 2017 In 1875 William Greenwood made his home in the wilds of Patagonia a pioneer in the territory of Tehuelche Indians There he guided expeditions into the unmapped Interior He lived by hunting wild cattle and horses pumas and guanacos foxes and ostriches then trading their hides pelts and feathers in distant Punta Arenas This was life on the South American Frontier a southern version of the Wild West There were many adventures but also times of hunger and hardship with only dogs and horses for company His life was threatened by snowstorms by a wild bull and by a volcanic eruption People thought him eccentric and a loner but this was the land and the life that he loved These are the memories of one of the earliest European immigrants to Southern Patagonia written over a century ago then lost and forgotten No other pioneer has left a better description of those early times His writing is humorous and wise the voice of true experience
