Changing Patterns in the Distribution of Economic Welfare Peter Gottschalk, Bjorn A. Gustafsson, Edward E. Palmer, 1997-09-29 This 1997 book examines the income distributional experience of fifteen developed economies representing a wide range of social and economic strategies over the past two decades Experts from each of the countries have carefully documented the pattern of distributional change in individual earnings and household income in their countries and analysed the driving forces behind these changes Separate chapters are devoted to the experiences of Australia Canada the Czech Republic Finland France West and former East Germany Greece Hungary Ireland Israel Japan the Netherlands Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States The authors examine the effects on the inequality of household income of the development of individual earnings unemployment inflation public sector transfers and taxes and demographic changes      Clothed in Integrity Barbara Paleczny, 2006-01-01 Barbara Paleczny herself a daughter of garment workers tugs at the threads of homeworking in the garment industry to reveal a low wage strategy that rends the fabric of social integrity and exposes global trends The resurgence of sweatshops affects the working poor in both first and third world countries Paleczny assesses the responsibility of transnational retailers for unacceptable wages and working conditions and describes historic shifts in the global context of garment production After exploring systemic causes of poverty relevant policy setting and ethical foundations Paleczny introduces both short and long range possibilities for transformation emphasizing the collaborative nature of work Clothed in Integrity draws on feminist studies alternative economics and the ethical foundations proposed by Bernard Lonergan to fashion a constructive work in which Paleczny connects issues of societal meanings and values moral imperatives and economic feasibility With candour she shares personal stories of engagement in coalition work Those who dwell on this text will find information challenges and inspiration to nurture their reflection research dialogue and action      Equality Deferred Dominique Clément, 2014-05-06 In Equality Deferred Dominique Clément traces the history of sex discrimination in Canadian law and the origins of human rights legislation Focusing on British Columbia the first jurisdiction to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex he documents a variety of absurd almost unbelievable acts of discrimination Drawing on previously undisclosed human rights commission records Clement explores the rise and fall of what was once the country's most progressive human rights legal regime and reveals how political divisions and social movements shaped the human rights state This book is not only a testament to the revolutionary impact of human rights on Canadian law but also a reminder that it takes more than laws to effect transformative social change

Canadian Families 1900-2000 Benjamin Schlesinger, 2000 This partially annotated bibliography of 943 articles relating to Canadian Families covers the period from 1900-2000 The concept is unique in its attempt to give the reader an overview of what has been published in English on the major issues relating to Canadian Families during a century Items in the bibliography are organized into 50 topical headings and include articles books reports surveys and other entries from published sources Also included is a selection of relevant websites An introductory essay highlights some of the major events relating to Canadian Families during the 1964-2000 period Historical entries let the reader examine what family life was like during the first 50 years of the 20th century An author index of 968 names allows for quick reference to specific bibliographic items

Driven Apart Annis May Timpson, 2001 From the outset of second wave feminism in Canada women have advanced analyses of employment inequality that embrace their labour in both the public and domestic spheres Through campaigns task forces and direct engagement with government departments activists have argued that only when the Canadian state takes account of their roles as care providers can women's full potential as worker citizens be realized

CM, 1989 Canadian Journal of Physics, 1993 Citizen Politics Joanna Marie Everitt, Brenda Lee O'Neill, 2002 The study of political behaviour in Canada has often focused largely on parties and voting Citizen Politics seeks to expand that definition of political behaviour to encompass behaviouralism as a method of inquiry as well as a focus of inquiry which includes political culture public opinion voting and elections political participation leaders and activists and interest groups and social movements In the past fifteen years since a Canadian political behaviour text was last published the field has changed immensely and this collection reflects these changes Women are examined as independent political actors the importance of the media to voting and elections is investigated the uniqueness of immigrant and ethnic minority participation in Canadian politics is discussed and new social movements are examined Each section begins with an essay that synthesizes the important research and arguments that inform each subfield These are followed by two or more essays of original contemporary research which inform students of critical new approaches and provide examples of how research in the field of political behaviour is conducted The editors begin the volume with an essay that discusses what political behaviour is how the study is done and why it is important as a field of study and they end the book with an examination of the state of the field in Canada today and an assessment of tomorrow's challenges

A. Heitlinger, 1993-09-07 Rather than assuming as so many demographers and feminists have done that promoting women's equality and elevating birth rates is incompatible Alena Heitlinger argues that there is no inherently antagonistic relationship of this sort and that there may be mutually compatible pronatal and gender equality policies Based on comparative data from Canada Australia Britain and to a more limited extent the USA her study examines the impact of major international instruments promoting women's equality and national similarities and differences in women's policy machinery provision for maternity and childcare fiscal assistance for families with children and the costs and benefits of fertility related measures vis a vis immigration related measures The author concludes that broadly conceived measures to achieve equal opportunity can provide a new quite powerful justification for policies which in other contexts may be called pronatalist For the most part pronatalist intent has been non-existent but the potential for higher fertility is significant Policy Communities and Public Policy in Canada William Donald Coleman, Grace Skogstad, 1990 Atlantis, 2005 Cahiers de la Femme, 2002

Braving the New World Thomas Michael Joseph Bateman, Roger Ivan Epp, 2004 Braving the New World features a selection of readings that provide a stimulating discussion of topics most often covered in the introductory political science course Three quarters of these readings are new or revised and updated making Braving the New World more current and relevant than ever Many of the readings offer a uniquely Canadian perspective on domestic and international issues enhancing the student's understanding of political concepts and events
