Changing Labour Party:

The Making of New Labour's European Policy Russell Holden, 2001-12-17 Russell Holden considers the policy reversal on Europe made by the Labour Party between 1983 and 1999. It charts and analyzes how the Party became pro-European with particular emphasis on how this change was conceived and implemented. In so doing, it concentrates on how the European issue became a political priority and a dynamic tool for promoting economic reform and Party unity, two essential requirements in making the Party New Labour a credible alternative government in the eyes of the general public. New Labour's Foreign Policy Richard Little, Mark Wickham-Jones, 2000. In light of the innumerable interventions that characterise the transformation of Ireland over the last two decades, Spacing Ireland: Place, Society and Culture in a Post-Boom Era explores questions of space and place to understand the nature of major social, cultural, and economic change in contemporary Ireland. The authors explore the intersections between everyday life and global exchanges through the contexts of the stuff of contemporary everyday encounters: food, housing, leisure, migration, music, shopping, travel, and work. These are the multiple layers of space we now inhabit. Ireland is a turbulent place. It is fruitful to consider the contemporary geographies of the island through the various forms where change is expressed. The wide range of topics addressed in the collection and the plurality of spaces they represent make the book appealing not only to students and academics but to anyone who follows social, cultural, and economic developments in Ireland. The Changing Labour Party Martin J. Smith, Joanna Spear, 2018-12-07. First published in 1992. In the 1992 General Election, the Labour Party presented a substantially changed programme to the electorate. This book presents an analysis of the fundamental changes to Labour policy which occurred during the 1980s. It examines in detail the ideological and political context of the Policy Review undertaken by the Party following its third consecutive electoral defeat in 1987. It also traces changes in Party organisation and analyses Party members' views of the new policies. New Labour's Women MPs Sarah Childs, 2004-07-31. It was not long after the election of a record number of women to the House of Commons in 1997 that the backlash began. The criticism was all-encompassing: they wore the wrong clothes, they voted the wrong way, and they were concerned with the wrong issues. Above all, they were accused of failing to make a difference to have failed women and were dismissed by some as Blair's Babes. Drawing on in-depth interviews with more than half of the new Labour women MPs, Sarah Childs reveals how these women actually experienced being MPs and explores whether they acted for and like women in their constituencies in parliament and in government. She presents important insights into theories of women's political representation, showing that the relationship between women's descriptive and substantive representation is complicated, that party and gender identities are crucial, that women's differences must be acknowledged, and that it might not always be possible for women representatives to act for women even if they want to. Including a key section on women's selection for parliament, whether women MPs act as role models, why it is important that women should be present in politics, as well as exploring in depth the subject of women's substantive representation New Labour s Women MPs is essential reading for all those interested in women and politics legislative studies political behaviour and representation Britain Needs Change Gerry Hassan,Simon Barrow,2024-11-28 After fourteen years of Conservative government combined with Brexit a global pandemic the rise of a populist far right and the existential threat of climate change many see Britain as undergoing serious social economic and cultural decline This is the context in which Labour have taken office at Westminster after a decade and a half in opposition With recent ways of doing politics government and statecraft in crisis how can a serious humane alternative emerge What scale and type of change is coming and will it be for the better All this raises serious questions about the future of the UK and its constituent nations Labour s ability to govern progressively and the incoming government s confidence and capacity to take on the entrenched vested interests of present day Britain while also having an honest mature conversation with the public and its own supporters about the nature of these challenges In Britain Needs Change some of our best thinkers and commentators dissect the challenges facing the new government in a series of wide ranging penetrative essays Featuring contributions from Helena Kennedy John Curtice Mariana Mazzucato Neal Lawson Aditya Chakraborty Ann Pettifor Gavin Esler Hilary Cottam Sunder Katwala Savitri Hensman Fintan O Toole and Andrew Gamble among others this is required reading for anyone interested in the future of our country
