Horror Film and Otherness Adam Lowenstein,2022-07-19 What do horror films reveal about social difference in the everyday world Criticism of the genre often relies on a dichotomy between monstrosity and normality in which unearthly creatures and deranged killers are metaphors for society's fear of the others that threaten the normal The monstrous other might represent women Jews or Blacks as well as Indigenous queer poor elderly or disabled people The horror film's depiction of such minorities can be sympathetic to their exclusion or complicit in their oppression but ultimately these images are understood to stand in for the others that the majority dreads and marginalizes Adam Lowenstein offers a new account of horror and why it matters for understanding social otherness He argues that horror films reveal how the category of the other is not fixed Instead the genre captures ongoing metamorphoses across normal self and monstrous other This transformative otherness confronts viewers with the other's experience and challenges us to recognize that we are all vulnerable to becoming or being seen as the other Instead of settling into comforting certainties regarding monstrosity and normality horror exposes the ongoing struggle to acknowledge self and other as fundamentally intertwined Horror Film and Otherness features new interpretations of landmark films by directors including Tobe Hooper George A Romero John Carpenter David Cronenberg Stephanie Rothman Jennifer Kent Marina de Van and Jordan Peele Through close analysis of their engagement with different forms of otherness this book provides new perspectives on horror's significance for culture politics and art
