

Activity 1: Individual Activity

Use graphic organizer below to show what you have learned about performance-based assessment. You may expand the web.

Process oriented

It's a step-by-step process, on-going process that allows student-centered learning and progress monitoring where teachers and students collaborate and adjust their learning where needed.

Observation

In which the Teacher observes and makes judgement about the student's demonstration of skill or competency in creating a product, making presentation or constructing a response; Progress monitoring.

Product oriented

We usually do this even when we were still in elementary especially in subjects that requires an output or a performance or a demonstration of a skill that is that was learned.

Performance Task

The objective is to capture all learning targets which is aligned to the teaching and the learning outcome/objectives, or the plan of the Teacher with the help also of Rubrics.

Higher Order Thinking Skills (HOTS)

Encourages the students to apply knowledge in critical thinking, deep thinking, and problem-solving skills considering Bloom's taxonomy. Applying what they have learned

Child's Development

The main objective of the performance-based assessment is child's development; students are able to given chance to take ownership of their learning which can boost self-confidence, to be more engage and they can use the learnings in real world.
