Ghetie,2012-12-06 The deployment of communications networks and distributed computing systems requires the use of open standards based integrated management systems During the last five years the overall industry effort to develop enhance and integrate management systems has crystallized in the concept of management platforms Management platforms are software systems which provide open multi vendor multiprotocol distributed management services They allow multiple management applications to run over core platform services which constitute the essential part of the management platform framework This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the features and technical characteristics of distributed management platforms by examining both qualitative and quantitative management capabilities required by each management platform service The analysis covers the management platform run time environment the operational aspects of using management platforms the development environment which consists of software toolkits that are used to build management applications the implementation environment which deals with testing interoperability aspects of using management platforms and of course the distributed applications services which platforms make available to management applications Finally the analysis covers the capabilities of several management applications either generic or specific to devices or resources which run on top of management platforms Analysis and Testing of Distributed Software Applications H. Krawczyk,B. Wiszniewski,1998 Trends in Distributed Systems: Towards a Universal Service Market Claudia Linnhoff-Popien,Heinz-Gerd Hegering,2006-12-30 USM 2000 is the third event in a series of international IFIP GI conferences on Trends in Distributed Systems Following the venues in Aachen Germany 1996 and Hamburg Germany 1998 this event in Munich considers the trend towards a Universal Service Market USM 2000 The trend towards a universal service market has many origins e g the integration of telecom and data communications the deregulation efforts with respect to telco markets the globalization of information the virtualization of companies the requirement of a short time to market the advances in network technologies the increasing acceptance of e commerce and the increase in ability This leads to new business to business B2B and business to customer B2C environments that offer both challenges and opportunities to enterprises and end users There is the need for ubiquitous services trading brokering and information management for service market and business models and for enable infrastructures for dynamic collaboration Researchers service vendors and users must cooperate to set up the appropriate requirements for a universal service market and to find solutions with respect to supporting platforms, middleware, distributed applications and management. The basis for these solutions is a common understanding of means for defining, creating, implementing and deploying the service market. Then service market makers, service aggregators, service auctioneers, ISP, ASP, BPO and customers can freely interact in a dynamic, open and universal market place.

Basque International Workshop on Information Technology, 1995. BIWIT provides researchers and industrialists with a forum for the exchange of ideas in the area of information technology. The topic of BIWIT 95 was data management systems. Among the fields that have received attention in recent years with a view to enhancing both the structural and behavioral factors are:

Application (re)engineering Amjad Umar, 1997. 750034 Building advanced Web based enterprise applications: a comprehensive systematic approach. Three technologies are converging to dramatically change the nature of application development: client server, object orientation and the Internet. This book is a complete guide to successfully integrating all of these technologies in your new enterprise applications. Expert consultant and project manager Dr Amjad Umar shows how to establish data architectures, application architectures and frameworks that enable successful Web based software development. He presents a detailed methodology for using middleware to engineer new applications or reengineer existing ones. He also offers a systematic approach to cope with legacy systems including legacy data access, data warehousing and application migration transition strategies. For each major issue confronting developers, Umar considers the state of today's marketplace as well as trends that will powerfully impact development projects in the near future. The book contains extensive guidelines, implementation examples and case studies using a wide range of technologies including CORBA, ActiveX, PowerBuilder, Encina, CGI and other Web gateways. The book includes short tutorials on object oriented concepts, distributed objects, the World Wide Web and client server middleware. Each chapter is written as a self contained tutorial making the book a valuable resource not only for IT professionals but also for trainers, teachers and advanced students.
