An Afro-Christian Vision George Omaku Ehusani, 1991 This book demonstrates that modern Western civilization is sustained by a purely materialistic and therefore reductionist world view a world view which has earned for the West its technological economic and political ascendancy but also one by which it now leads the world in a race to oblivion In this work the author points to the wealth of human and spiritual values in the African cultural legacy which have been ignored by the rest of the world in favor of an overtly materialistic axiology and which the contemporary African elite is under pressure to abandon in pursuit of goods and technology With the Ebiran notion of ozovehe the human person is life as a point of departure the book uses as its text a combination of African orature and biblical and traditional Christian anthropological thought The main theme is that the African heritage has something to offer the world of today The African humanistic vision ozovehe enriched by the Christian notion of Imago Dei presents an alternative value system an African Christian humanism

The Christian Vision of Humanity John Randall Sachs, 1991 The incredible technical achievements of recent history may make us feel little less than gods but we also find much that cuts us down When we face our own limits and failures upon what or whom can we rely The biblical answer to questions about the ultimate nature and meaning of human life begins with the experience of Semitic slaves led out of Egyptian slavery beautifully recounted in Deuteronomy 26 5 11 The New Testament presents Jesus as the culmination of God's Old Testament promise Christian faith has a particular Vision of the world and of humanity founded upon the relationship between God and creation Its key elements are found in the inviolable dignity of every person the essential centrality of community and the significance of human action These are the main themes of a Christian anthropology developed in this book
