The Making of Citizens Robert Edward Hughes,2015-06-15 Excerpt from The Making of Citizens A Study in Comparative Education During the last twenty years an enormous amount of material on the educational systems of Europe and America has been collected and published by various Governments as well as by private persons Hitherto however there has been no attempt made to collect and present this material in a systematic form to the English reader although M Levasseur has done this for the French and several writers have performed a similar duty for the German reader The preparation of this work has proved a heavy task and I trust that my effort will be received as an earnest attempt to place before my readers a complete and accurate account of the present position of education in the four principal countries of the world There is one point I am anxious to make clear I have placed as my aim not the compilation of sets of comparable and scientifically accurate statistics for I recognise the futility and indeed impossibility of such a task as that My purpose has been rather to utilise statistics as a means to an end and that end is the presentation of a reasonably clear and well defined set of pictures illustrating the systems of education at work in these countries Statistics are used as guides not gauges About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
