De Valera:

De Valera and His Times John P. O'Carroll, 1983 Irish Nationalists and the Making of the Irish Race Bruce Nelson, 2013-12-26 This is a book about Irish nationalism and how Irish nationalists developed their own conception of the Irish race Bruce Nelson begins with an exploration of the discourse of race from the nineteenth century belief that race is everything to the more recent argument that there are no races He focuses on how English observers constructed the native and Catholic Irish as uncivilized and savage and on the racialization of the Irish in the nineteenth century especially in Britain and the United States where Irish immigrants were often portrayed in terms that had been applied mainly to enslaved Africans and their descendants Most of the book focuses on how the Irish created their own identity in the context of slavery and abolition empire and revolution Since the Irish were a dispersed people this process unfolded not only in Ireland but in the United States Britain Australia South Africa and other countries Many nationalists were determined to repudiate anything that could interfere with the goal of building a united movement aimed at achieving full independence for Ireland But others including men and women who are at the heart of this study believed that the Irish struggle must create a more inclusive sense of Irish nationhood and stand for freedom everywhere Nelson pays close attention to this argument within Irish nationalism and to the ways it resonated with nationalists worldwide from India to the Caribbean
