Crashing Thunder:

Crashing Thunder Paul Radin, 2025-07-31 Paul Radin one of America's first and most reputable professional anthropologists lived among the Winnebago Indians for years and for years he tried without success to interview the notorious younger son of the Blow Snake family the Crashing Thunder of this book At last Crashing Thunder agreed to tell Radin his life story one that Radin calls a true rake's progress Speaking through Radin Crashing Thunder told of his childhood stories of Winnebago gods his appetite for women and beer and his extraordinary friends and relatives including his brother in law Thunder Cloud then in his third incarnation Crashing Thunder also told of his redemption through his new religion peyote To enhance understanding of the autobiography and its place in anthropology and literature a new foreword appendix and index have been prepared by eminent Native American scholar Arnold Krupat For Those Who Come After Arnold Krupat, 2023-04-28 Drawing on the life stories of Native Americans solicited by historians during the 19th century and later by anthropologists concerned with amplifying the cultural record Arnold Krupat examines the Indian autobiography as a specific genre of American writing This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1986 Drawing on the life stories of Native Americans solicited by historians during the 19th century and later by anthropologists concerned with amplifying the cultural record Arnold Krupat examines the Indian autobiography as a specific genre of American w

Women Ethnographers and Native Women Storytellers Susan Berry Brill de Ramírez, 2015-11-19 This book focuses on the collaborative work between Native women storytellers and their female ethnographers and or editors but the book is also about what it is that is constitutive of scientific rigor factual accuracy cultural authenticity and storytelling signification and meaning Regardless of discipline academic ethnographers who conducted their field work research during the twentieth century were trained in the accepted scientific methods and theories of the time that prescribed observation objectivity and evaluative distance In contradistinction to such prescribed methods regarding the ethnographic work conducted among Native Americans it turns out that the intersubjectively relational work of women both ethnographers and the Indigenous storytellers with whom they worked has produced far more reliably factual historically accurate and tribally specific Indigenous autobiographies than the more scientifically objective approaches of most of the male ethnographers This volume provides a close lens to the work of a number of women ethnographers and Native American women storytellers to elucidate the effectiveness of their relational methods Through a combined rhetorical and literary analysis of these ethnographies we are able to differentiate the products of the women's working relationships By shifting our focus away from the surface level textual reading that largely approaches the texts as factually informative documents literary analysis provides access into the deeper levels of the storytelling that lies beneath the surface of the edited texts Non Native scholars and editors such as Franc Johnson Newcomb Ruth Underhill Nancy Lurie Julie Cruikshank and No l Bennett and Native storytellers and writers such as Grandma Klah Mar a Chona Mountain Wolf Woman Mrs Angela Sidney Mrs Kitty Smith Mrs Annie Ned and Tiana Bighorse help us to understand that there are ways by which voices and worlds are more and less disclosed for posterity The results vary based upon the range of factors surrounding their production but consistent across each case is the fact that informational accuracy is contingent upon the the degree of mutual respect and collaboration in the women s working relationships And it is in their pioneering intersubjective methodologies that the work of these women deserves far greater attention and approbation
