The Changing Contract across Generations Vern L. Bengtson, W. Andrew Achenbaum, 2024-11-01 Generational conflict has attracted considerable attention in the media and within academic circles during the past decade At the center of this collection of papers analyzing various facets of that conflict lie complex issues of generational equity issues that will remain important for the framing of public policy during the 1990s What do the young and the middle aged owe the elderly In discharging that debt to what extent are they able to provide for their own old age in a climate of changing notions of welfare What light do the longer perspectives of history shed on these issues What role do kinship gender and economic status play The papers commissioned by Bengtson and Achenbaum are intended to give greater analytic rigor to current debates The volume is interdisciplinary not only by theoretical intent but by the practical imperatives of gerontology More than a dozen sociologists economists historians demographers and policy analysts discuss the meanings and ambiguities that are inherent in terms such as generation equity compact contract and conflict in order to assess how relations between the age groups seem to vary from one sociohistorical context to the next This distinguished group of contributors raises comparative issues throughout assessing variations in generational ties by gender race class and geographic location Several project the extent to which recent changes in the political economy public philosophy and demographic structure of most modern societies presage greater conflicts or greater consensus in family members relationships and social ties

Across the Zodiac Percy Greg,1880 Care Across Generations Kristin E. Yarris,2017-08-29 Global inequalities make it difficult for parents in developing nations to provide for their children Some determine that migration in search of higher wages is their only hope Many studies have looked at how migration transforms the child parent relationship But what happens to other generational relationships when mothers migrate Care Across Generations takes a close look at grandmother care in Nicaraguan transnational families examining both the structural and gendered inequalities that motivate migration and caregiving as well as the cultural values that sustain intergenerational care Kristin E Yarris broadens the transnational migrant story beyond the parent child relationship situating care across generations and embedded within the kin networks in sending countries Rather than casting the consequences of women s migration in migrant sending countries solely in terms of a care deficit Yarris shows how intergenerational reconfigurations of care serve as a resource for the wellbeing of children and other family members who stay behind after transnational migration Moving our perspective across borders and over generations Care Across Generations shows the social and moral value of intergenerational care for contemporary transnational families
