David Carr, 1997 Writing on the Tablet of the Heart David M. Carr, 2005-03-10 This book explores a new model for the production revision and reception of Biblical texts as Scripture Building on recent studies of the oral written interface in medieval Greco Roman and ancient Near Eastern contexts David Carr argues that in ancient Israel Biblical texts and other texts emerged as a support for an educational process in which written and oral dimensions were integrally intertwined The point was not incising and reading texts on parchment or papyrus The point was to enculturate ancient Israelites particularly Israelite elites by training them to memorize and recite a wide range of traditional literature that was seen as the cultural bedrock of the people narrative prophecy prayer and wisdom an adventure in jazz, Genesis 1-11 David M. Carr, 2021-01-13 This commentary offers a synthesis of close readings of Genesis 1-11 and up to date study of the formation of these chapters in their ancient Near Eastern context Each interpretation of these evocative and multilayered narratives is preceded with a new translation with textual and philological commentary and a concise overview of the ways in which each text bears the marks of its shaping over time This prepares for a close reading that draws on the best of older and newer exegetical insights into these chapters a reading that then connects to feminist queer ecocritical and other contemporary approaches

The Night of the Gun David Carr, 2012-12-11 David Carr was an addict for more than twenty years first dope then coke then finally crack before the prospect of losing his newborn twins made him sober up in a bid to win custody from their crack dealer mother Once recovered he found that his recollection of his lost years differed sometimes radically from that of his family and friends The night for example his best friend pulled a gun on him No said the friend to David's horror as a lifelong pacifist It was you that had the gun Using all his skills as an investigative reporter he set out to research his own life interviewing everyone from his parents and his ex partners to the policemen who arrested him the doctors who treated him and the lawyers who fought to prove he was fit to have custody of his kids Unflinchingly honest and beautifully written the result is both a shocking account of the depths of addiction and a fascinating examination of how and why our memories deceive us As David says we remember the stories we can live with not the ones that happened
