ABSTRACT

This paper argues that Intelligent Tutoring Systems (ITS) offer the potential for advancing existing techniques for computer assisted instruction and deepening the understanding of issues in the learning and teaching of writing. The paper: (1) outlines the goals and significance of research in ITS, emphasizing their value in formulating knowledge about teaching more explicitly; (2) analyzes the pedagogical assumptions underlying research in ITS, focusing on theories of discovery learning and learning by doing; (3) describes the architecture of these systems; and (4) illustrates the instructional design issues by describing "Parnassus," a project to construct an ITS for exploring instructional design issues in teaching students to write. (Forty-five references and one figure are attached.) (RS)

Arguing From Sources Exploring Issues Through Reading And Writing:

Arguing from Sources David S. Kaufer, Cheryl Geisler, Christine M. Neuwirth, 1989-03-01 Lessons Learned from FIPSE Projects Dora Marcus, 1990 Learning to Design, Designing to Learn Diane Pelkus Balestri, Stephen C. Ehrmann, David L. Ferguson, 1992 Aims to emphasize the potential role technology can play in helping schools colleges transform teaching and learning through design based curricula Practical observations recommendations are made The thesis of the book is that technology can help

Hearing Ourselves Think Ann M. Penrose, Barbara M. Sitko, 1993-07-01 In Hearing Ourselves Think cognitive process research moves from the laboratory to the college classroom where its rich research tradition continues and an important new set of instructional approaches emerges Each chapter moves from research results to classroom action providing a direct and important link between research theory and practice The book develops the concept of the research based classroom in which students actively examine the processes and contexts of reading and writing and then turn their observations into principles for practice Hearing Ourselves Think contributes to a lively new tradition of socio cognitive research in writing and reading exploring the dynamics of cognitive processes as they interact with dimensions of the academic context

Learning to Rival Linda Flower, Elenore Long, Lorraine Higgins, 2000-04 The authors of this book set out on an expedition of sorts to study rival hypothesis thinking or rivaling an important literate practice in which people explore open questions through an analysis of multiple perspectives and evidence

Rhetoric and the Arts of Design David S. Kaufer, Brian S. Butler, 2013-11-26 The design arts from the design of buildings and machines to software and interfaces are associated with types of knowledge and performance thought to be structured modular and systematic Such arts have become increasingly prestigious in our technocratic society Since Aristotle the art of rhetoric was conceived as a loosely structured practical art thought to be limited in the extent to which it could mimic more precise subject matters The art of rhetoric has been controversial since classical times but its status has sunk even lower since the industrial revolution a point when civic cultures began to cede authority and control to the cultures of specialized experts Many sympathizers of rhetoric have resisted its decline by calling for a civic art of public discourse to stand in opposition to a technocratic specialized discourse that has come increasingly to disenfranchise the ordinary citizen This is the first book to question the rhetoric technical knowledge split from a more fundamental perspective To get some perspective on what is at stake in rhetoric s traditional classification as a practical art the authors explore the distinction between practical and design arts enumerate the various criteria cited in the literature for qualifying a cluster of knowledge and performative skills to count as an art of design show how the knowledge and performative skills associated with the art of rhetoric meet the major requirements of design knowledge propose a general architecture of rhetorical design one descriptive both of civic address and specialized academic argument turn to the Lincoln Douglas debates to embody and provide some empirical support and illustration for their architecture demonstrate how Lincoln and Douglas can be thought of as expert designers whose rhetoric is highly structured and modular and explain how the rhetoric of both rhetorical agents can be represented in the layers and modules that one needs to display plans for buildings software or other design artifacts These layers and modules are not just post hoc annotations of the debates they also illuminate new and systematic ways for viewing the debates and by implication other specimens of rhetoric in terms of strategies of artistic production Kaufer and Butler conclude their presentation by citing some of the research and educational implications that follow from housing rhetoric within the family of design arts

The Culture of Reading and the Teaching of English Kathleen McCormick, 1994 The Culture of Reading and the Teaching of English aims to do for contemporary literary and cultural theory what I A Richards Practical Criticism did for literary formalism Kathleen McCormick analyzes current approaches to reading theory and the teaching of literary and related cultural texts She moves beyond theory with its tendency to become arcane and elitist and instead examines the cultures of reading its ideologies institutions and classroom practices She presents cognitive expressivist and culturally based approaches to reading and then considers a variety of institutional and classroom practices from the writing of formal essays to the use of textbooks This represents a crucial intervention in debates around the reformation of new curricula in schools and the politically correct classroom currently raging in both Britain and America The Culture of Reading is much more than a classroom oriented approach to contemporary literary and cultural theory Through accounts of teaching experiences student writing professional conferences and curriculum battles on both sides of the Atlantic she tells an often personal frequently amusing account of the discoveries of one teacher herself a widely published critic writer and lecturer as she finds how theory is mediated in very different institutions social contexts and classroom situations

Developing Discourse Practices in Adolescence and Adulthood Susan Hynds, 1990 Examines how people develop their reading and writing skills during adolescence and adulthood This collection is based on the premise that four basic stances orientations underlie the discourse practices social textual institutional and field These four stances form the organizing rubric for these 17 papers Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Writing to Learn Science Randy Moore, 1997 This text was written in response to a large movement which promotes writing across the science curriculum While it includes topics such as how to write lab reports and or scientific paper for publication the focus is on writing as means of learning science Based on the popular Writing to Learn Biology by

Moore this second text addresses a range of topics from biology chemistry and physics Cultural Studies in the English Classroom James A. Berlin, Michael Vivion, 1992 Cultural Studies in the English Classroom is the first book of its kind to provide concrete models of cultural studies programs and classrooms for high school and college teachers Writing to Learn Biology Randy Moore, 2002 Textual Dynamics of the Professions Charles Bazerman, James G. Paradis, 1991 Textual Dynamics of the Professions is a collection of fifteen essays examining the real effects of text on professional practices in academic scientific and business settings Charles Bazerman and James Paradis describe textual dynamics as an interaction in which professional texts and discourses are constructed by and in turn construct social practices In the burgeoning field of discourse theory this anthology stands apart in its treatment of a wide range of professional texts including case studies student papers medieval letters and product instructions and in the inclusion of authors from a variety of disciplines Invaluable to the new pedagogical field of writing across the curriculum Textual Dynamics of the Professions is also a significant intervention into the studies of rhetoric writing theory and the sociology of knowledge New Technologies for Literacy and Adult Education Daniel A. Wagner, Robert B. Kozma, 2005 New technology can provide powerful new tools for enriching the lives of poor people and communities in unprecedented ways At least that was the view of the G8 Digital Opportunities Task Force in 2001 A view that is upheld and further explored in the pages of this book With an estimated 850 million illiterate people in the world today this book explores how new information and communication technology ICT supports basic literacy and the information skills crucial for economic and social development Conversations in Context Kathryn Fitzgerald, Kathy Fitzgerald, Heather Bruce, Anna Vogt, Sharon Stasney, 1997-10 Conversations in Context Identity Knowledge and College Writing invites students to learn about and participate in a series of related conversations about student identities the aims of the university and the conventions of academic writing Rather than seeing academic writing as consisting of objective statements of truth the editors of this textbook view it as a social construction of knowledge that requires rhetorical choices as well as empirical research This book represents academic writing as a sequence of continuing conversations within discourse communities provides a variety of opportunities to engage with and participate in these conversations
